

Writing to Santa

Shown here are first and third grade students at the Dallas Township Elementary School as they prepare their Letters to Santa. Mrs. Judy Roeder is the first grade teacher and Mrs. Mary Nulton is the third grade teacher.

Elementary students share 'Dear Santa' letters

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The First Grade children of Mrs. Judy Roeder and the Third Grade children of Mrs. Mary Nulton are sharing a wonderful Christmas experience. The Third Graders have been practicing writing letters and the First Graders have been very eager to write their letters to Santa. Each child in First Grade had a Third Grade partner to write their letter for them. A wonderful educational experience was shared by both classes. While the students are anxiously awaiting a reply from the North Pole, they would like to share their letters with Dallas Post readers. The letters are printed here, exactly as Santa will read them!)

☆ If your busy schedule sends you straight from the office to a party here are a few tricks to transform your daytime eyes into an alluring night time eye.

☆ Touch up under the eye with concealing cream, one shade lighter than your skin tone. This hides end-of-day shadows and helps the eyes appear larger.

☆ Highlight with an iridescent powder or pencil just under the brow & down the center of the lid. Add another thin coat of mascara.

☆ Lightly dust a touch of iridescent powder high on your cheekbone to illuminate your eyes. Iridescent powder should be applied subtly just above your blusher and be sure to blend well.
