

Area highways scene of several accidents

Three-car smash

The two cars visible in this photo, along with a third vehicle, crashed into each other last Thursday afternoon on Route 309 near the Mark II Family Restaurant. Details on the accident, however, were sketchy at presstime.

No one injured

No one was seriously hurt in this one-car accident that took place Saturday afternoon on Carverton Road. According to Kingston Twp. police, Catherine C. Milligan, 500 Schooley Ave., Exeter, was operating her 1977 Oldsmobile Cutlass in the eastbound lane when she hit the curb, jumped the divider and hit a tree before rolling over onto its roof. Milligan did receive minor injuries, but refused treatment. The vehicle was towed to Dolphi's Garage.

Slippery pavement

This 1981 Dodge Colt, driven by Emory D. Huey, 247 Courtdale Ave., Courtdale, slid into a rock embankment and flipped over onto its roof early Sunday morning. According to the accident report, Huey was traveling north on Rt. 309 when he hit a patch of ice and lost control of the vehicle. The car then slid into a rock embankment and flipped onto its roof before coming to rest. Huey was not hurt, but a passenger, Margaret Huey, was treated and released from the Nesbitt Hospital. The vehicle was towed to Wesley's station.

'OK Heart' movie done

The film, "O.K. Heart" based on the 1985 study of Wyoming Valley residents, has been completed and will hopefully begin airing on public television outlets in Ohio during February, according to O.K. Heart president, Thomas J. Ward. Ward, vice-president of Professional and Public Affairs for Blue Cross of Northeastern Pennsylvania, has chaired the O.K. Heart project since its inception in 1984.

The documentary, which is narrated by actor, Cliff Robertson, examines the fixed and variable factors among nearly 20,000 valley participants in the project and chronicles the attempts of several individuals to reduce stress, alter diet and quit smoking in order to improve their heart health.

Locally, WVIA-TV 44 plans a Northeastern Pennsylvania premier showing of the film in May according to Dr. John Walsh, WVIA's president and general manager.
