

Hospital schedules courses

Wilkes-Barre General Hospital offers a pre-surgical class on an on-going basis for patients scheduled for surgery at General and their family members. The class is the only such program offered locally and prepares patients for surgery by increasing their understanding of the overall care plan before and after the operation. It is also helpful to parents of children scheduled for surgery at Wilkes-Barre General.

The class is free-of-charge and is coordinated by Kathy Ashton, R.N., a critical care staff nurse. She is assisted during the class by a registered nurse from the Surgical Services Department.

Class format includes discussion about the reasons for pre-operative fasting and medications, operating and recovery room routines, the administration and effects of anesthesia, post-operative exercises, the post-operative period and pain control. It also gives participants an opportunity to ask any questions they have.

For more information about the class schedule, call General's Nursing Services Department at 829-8111, extension 2205 or 3048. Mrs. Ashton is also available for speaking engagements with area organizations and groups.
