The Warden Place Water Company hereby notifies its customers of a maximum contaminant level (MCL) violation for the inorganic element, lead.

A water sample which was taken, showed lead in an amount above the MCL established by the Department of Environmental Resources.

Three (3) check samples from different locations in the system show no violation in the MCL for lead.

The Warden Place Water Company has been unable to resample the home where the first water sample was taken. The elevated lead content may be peculiar to that home, since the check samples did not show an MCL violation.

When access may be gained to the home where the first water sample was taken, a check sample will be taken and analyzed.
