Supers approve ordinance reading

Kingston Township supervisors approved the reading of an ordinance granting Tele-Media Company a franchise to hook-up cable television in outlying areas of that community at its monthly meeting last Wednesday night.

Frank Vicente, Vice President and General Manager of Tele-Media, along with Jerry Toma, General Manager of Dallas Cablevision, met with an engineer last week to discuss plans and outline the project. Those plans also include the servicing of the Carverton Heights section, hopefully by the end of the year.

Based in State College, Pa., Tele-Media took over operations when Century Communications, an affiliate of Sentry Insurance from Wisconsin, pulled out of the deal in an 11th hour decision.

In other business, township manager Fred Potzer received a letter from District Magistrate Earl Gergory informing him of Act 60, a community service program passed Sept. 27, 1985, affecting those individuals unable to pay fines levied by that office.

Now, in accordance with the township, those persons will be forced to provide compensation in the form of manual labor for the good of the community.

The supervisors also:

— Approved a Resolution acknowledging the township's participation in the Facilities Grant Program of the Department of Commerce, seeking a grant in the amount of $41,650.00. The money will be used to install 11 dry fire hydrants in the Trucksville-Shavertown areas. The grant will hopefully be approved by May 1, with the work to be completed by June or July. The installations, which will be located in strategic areas, will help the fire department cut down on response time.

— Approved the first reading of a township firearms ordinance. Under the new proposal, which will become law after the second reading, the shooting of rifles and other types of firearms will be allowed in A-1 and C-1 zones. Shooting will also be restricted to certain hours and all persons cannot be within 200 yards of a home or structure.

— Conditionally denied the request of Dale and Dale Homes for the subdivision of Lots 180, 181 and 182 on Harford Street in Shavertown. The township would first like to check with Joe Salla, General Manager of the Dallas Water Company, to see if the construction of two new homes will affect the water pressure of other homes in that area.

Residents in the N. Lehigh and Harford Street sections have experienced such problems in the past, mainly because of a steep hill in that area.

— Approved the second reading of an ordinance rezoning Lot No. 15 located at 73 Memorial Highway where the Evans and Jones Real Estate will construct a new office.

— Received bids for the resurfacing of township streets under the Liquid Fuels Paving Program. Bids are still being reviewed and will be awarded at the next meeting. Work will be delayed, however, until the water company installs a new main on Mt. Airy Road and finishes extension work on Spring and Brook roads. The township will also observe construction closely before resurfacing begins. Those streets included will be: Mt. Airy, N. Franklin, Ferguson, Spring and Brook.

— Awarded a bid for a 8-12 ton Galion Tandem Roller to Stewart-Amos Equipment Company of Harrisburg at a price of $13,000. The addition will now make the department totally self-sufficient. The township already has two smaller rollers, a paver, tarketle and a sweeper.

— Approved a Resolution requesting reimbursement from Community Development in the amount of $69,000 for construction work completed under the CIP Program.

The board is also considering other projects and would like to cut costs as much as possible. Solicitor Ben R. Jones III said school personnel could not be used because the cost of the project exceeds a certain dollar amount and therefore, by law, would have to be open for bids.

Jones, did say work can be done by volunteers or non-professionals and then presented to the school district, thus bypassing mandatory procedures by the Department of Labor and Industry.

a TWA Boeing 727 exploded as it descended near Athens. One week later, another American was killed in a West Berlin disco bombing believed to have been planned by the Libyan embassy in East Berlin.

Last week, White House officials confirmed the U.S. is mulling over the possibility of taking military action against Libya, a position all three students agree with to some degree.

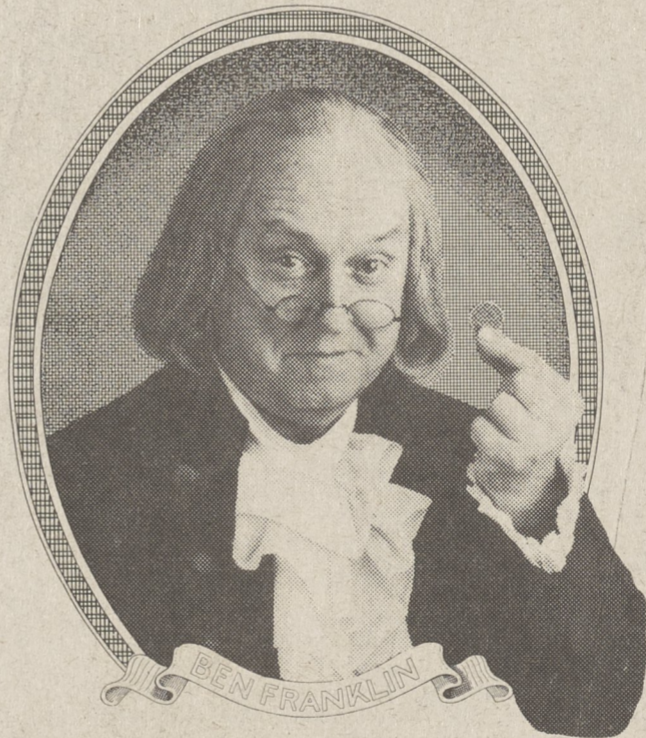

"The United States has to react," Titus said last week. "I'm not sure exactly how, but we have to issue a warning or something to let them know we will not stand for what they are doing. We have to make them backoff."

Yaple agreed. "They are not a major power and they're not the most knowledgeable country. They couldn't even hit any of our ships," he said, referring to the recent battle in the Gulf of Sidra in which the U.S. sank at least two Libyan patrol boats and damaged a missile launching site. Libya claimed to have shot down three American fighter jets, but the U.S. denied that claim.

"I think our 6th Fleet could have wiped out their entire forces," Smith added.

Both he and Titus have registered for the draft, although Yaple, who just celebrated his 18th birthday a few days before, had not yet signed up.
