

Residents honored

The Meadows Apartments, Dallas, recently announced its winners for the "Athlete of the Month" Contest. Residents who walked the most laps around the pond, which is located on the Meadows Complex, for June are: Men's Division, 1st place, Tom Williams; 2nd place, Wilbur Hoyt. Women's Division: 1st place, Grace Resio; 2nd place Doris Margellina. Shown here, from left, are Barbara J. Williams, Manager; Grace Resio, and Janet Mazur, Asst. Manager. Absent when photo was taken: Tom Williams, Doris Margellina, and Wilbur Hoyt.

Course completed

Girls between the ages of 11 and 18 recently completed a four-hour babysitting seminar coordinated by Wilkes-Barre General Hospital's Volunteer Services Department. The course familiarizes them with proper care of children, household safety measures and kidnap prevention. Instruction included first aid for emergencies and personal safety, taught by Gail Marshall, R.N., instructor; and basic care of small children, taught by Diana Morgan, R.N., instructor, both of the Education Department. Officer Chuck Pahler of the Safety & Security Department spoke on fire safety-how to protect yourself from child abductors. The teens were welcomed by Daria Leonard, assistant director of Volunteer Services and program coordinator. Participants received a certificate upon completion of the course. Pictured above, from left, are Barbara Campbell, Dallas; Lori Stofka, Plains; Gail Marshall, R.N., instructor, Wyoming; Christa Walsh, Plains; and Jamie Maniskas, Dallas.

why shouldn't athletes? What's the sense of giving a kid a scholarship when he doesn't have a chance of graduating? For too long, college athletics have majored in the art of sucking the athletic talent out of kids for four or five years and then turning them out into the real world with nothing more than a good jump shot.

Proposition 48 is the best hope to stem the most deplorable form of human usury since slavery, unconscious big-time college athletics.

BITS & PIECES

Well, the Goodwill Games are over. Just wanted to let you know.

Did anyone notice the silence in the New York papers over the arrest of four Mets for brawling with police in Houston on Saturday night? It was deafening. Not even a peep. Talk about homers.

In New York, Yankee writers, take your pick, are plugging the sports pages chock full of hope and bosh about the inevitable decline of the Boston Red Sox. I keep hearing 1978, 1978 - the year the Sox blew a 14 game lead in August and then lost a one-game playoff to the Yankees to lose the division. It is not going to happen. Don Baylor, an ex-Yankee, will not let it happen. Quote me on this.

This Tuesday, former Lake-Lehman athletic director Rodger Bearde, will be interviewed for the same post. The only other man in the race for the job is John Howe, a West Pittston resident now living in the Back Mountain and a former AD at Fitch High School in Connecticut.

Next week, I'll try to get a hold of some people and let you know what's going on. It should be interesting.

Did you ever notice how much trouble Dallas and Lehman have in getting rid of athletic personnel? Remember the Clint Brobst lynching? I've heard that the Shorty Hitchcock affair wasn't very pretty, either.

We should say a little prayer for Dick Howser. The Kansas City Royals manager will be operated on this week for a brain tumor.

Group surpasses its goal

The Luzerne County Council of the American Heart Association's Northeast Pennsylvania Chapter reached 104 percent of its campaign goal during its recently completed fiscal year, according to William Brace, county campaign chairman. The campaign goal was $121,404.

In making the announcement that $125,899 were raised to help combat heart and blood vessel diseases in the fiscal year that ended on June 30, Brace thanked the residents of Luzerne County for their generosity.

"The tremendous support shown by the people of Luzerne County in the fight against heart and blood vessel diseases, the number one cause of death and disability in the nation, indicates that they are both concerned and committed," he said. "On behalf of the entire Northeast Pennsylvania Chapter, I wish to thank everyone who made this campaign such a rousing success."

Brace said the money raised during the campaign will be used by the chapter to support research projects into the prevention and treatment of these diseases, provide public and professional education and offer community service programs.

"As a national organization, the American Heart Association is committed to reducing the number of premature deaths and cases of disability from heart and blood vessel diseases and the Northeast Pennsylvania Chapter is playing a key role," he said. "I hope that the people of Luzerne County will continue to generously support our work."

EDC sponsors area contest

The Economic Development Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania (EDCNP) issued a reminder recently that the deadline for submitting entries in the Eighth Annual Pocono Northeast Community Awards Program (PNCAP) is Friday, August 29.

As a major component of the Council's Area Awareness and Action Program, the PNCAP honors communities and organizations for their community improvement efforts and projects in improving the quality of life in the Pocono Northeast region.

Ginny Kirkwood, Director of Shawnee Development and PNCAP Chairperson, said, "The Pocono Northeast Community Awards Program is significant in recognizing communities and organization for their worthwhile civic endeavors. Interested parties are encouraged to submit projects for competition by August 29, 1986."

Misericordia prof has article printed

Dr. Charles A. LaJeunesse of Shavertown, assistant professor of psychology at College Misericordia, was notified that his article dealing with decision making will be published by University Associates in "The 1987 Annual: Developing Human Resources."

The article entitled, "Rankings and Ratings: A Comparison of Decision Making Approaches," explores the relative strengths and weaknesses of autocratic, democratic and consensus group decision making processes.

The premise for the decision making article evolved from a leadership development course for College Misericordia freshmen. "These potential leaders appreciated and learned from this structured experience," Dr. LaJeunesse explained.

"Each time I conducted the decision making processes, the results came out in the predicted direction. The fact that the rankings and ratings system works in a variety of settings convinced University Associates of its value," he said.

Dr. LaJeunesse holds a doctorate in counseling psychology and a master's degree in counseling from the University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri.

Ball held

Irem Temple holds Potentate's Ball

The Potentate's Ball, which was named "Illustrious Sir Jim's Circus Fantasy," took place Saturday evening, July 19, at Irem Temple Country Club, Dallas.

Potentate Brokenshire and his Lady Mary Ann were escorted to the stage by his Chief Aide, Noble Wilbur I. Thomas, where they introduced The Honorary Chairman, Christopher Samsel. Christopher, age 4, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Samsel, Berwick, and is a patient at the Philadelphia Shriners Orthopaedic Children's Hospital.

He was escorted by Irem's Imperial REpresentative, Noble Clifford L. Jones. Members of Irem's Divan, Past Potentates of Irem, visiting dignitaries from other Shrine Temples, The Right Worshipful Grand Master of Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania, Brother Carl W. Stenberg Jr., and their Ladies were welcomed and introduced.

The Legion of Honor Color Guard, under the command of Noble Harry L. Wood III, presented the colors. The Clown Unit, of which Potentate Brokenshire is a member, under the direction of Noble Clyde R. Oster, flanked the honor aisle.

A social hour starting at 5 p.m., with dinner at 6 p.m. preceded the affair. The dining and terrace rooms where dinner was served were decorated in Shrine colors of red, green and yellow and were enhanced with table linens of white and green with fresh cut daisies in bud vases arranged on the tables. The pavilion, where the ball was held, was decorated in a circus-like atmosphere, with red, green and yellow miniature lights suspended throughout the seating and dancing areas.

Dancing to the music of Noble Lee Vincent Big Band followed the Grand Entrance.

Nobles Hugh E. Williams Jr. and Donald J. Berry were general chairmen with Nobles Robert Emery, Robert T. Farrell, William A. McHenry and Milan W. Shepherd as general co-chairmen.

The following additional Nobles served as chairman and co-chairmen:
