Conway's predictions

(It should be known from the outset that no system can predict the outcome of a football game precisely. The Conway Computer System provides the fan with basic estimates which is better known as the "Instant Pre Play." Thus, the Conway System encourages the fan to draw on his own knowledge of the game and employ his own judgement in weighing all the influencing factors which will enable the fan to derive greater overall pleasure and satisfaction for the upcoming season.)

WATERFOUL IS THE THEME for interpretive programs at Frances Slocum State Park the weekend of September 26.

On Saturday, Sept. 27 at 2 p.m., the PA Game Commission's film "Mallard Duck" will be shown. This film looks at the life history of the mallard duck. It covers such topics as incubation problems, waterfowl management and economic and recreational value.

Sunday, Sept. 28 at 2 p.m., Mr. John Levitsky will present a slide show on North American Waterfowl.

Mr. Levitsky, former chairman of Ducks Unlimited and active member of Susquehanna Waterfowl, will use his slides to discuss habitats, species identification and migration patterns of North American Ducks and Geese. An introduction to the slide show will attempt to attract ducks by setting up decoy equipment and using duck calls.

Mr. Levitsky has been involved with waterfowl organizations for the past 12 years. Currently, Mr. Levitsky is involved in general habitat improvement of waterfowl in Northeastern Pennsylvania. This project is a joint effort of Susquehanna Waterfowl and the PA Game Commission.

Get ready for duck season with this informative and entertaining Waterfowl Seminar.

The program will take place rain or shine. Interested persons should meet at the Environmental Education Center. Park in the boat rental parking area and follow the closed road near the front of the parking lot.

For more information call Frances Slocum State Park at 696-3525.

WILKES-BARRE GENERAL HOSPITAL'S EMERGENCY SERVICES DEPARTMENT will celebrate Emergency Medical Services Week September 21-27. This special week honors medical specialists trained in emergency care and also creates a public awareness of the many emergency resources available to the community. Each year, over 77 million people in the United States are treated at emergency care facilities. General treats over 23,000 emergency cases annually.

In honor of Emergency Medical Services Week, the Emergency Services Department will present a seminar, "Topics in Emergency Medicine," on Wednesday, Sept. 24 at the Sheraton Crossgates in Wilkes-Barre. On Friday, Sept. 26, the department will conduct free blood typing, blood pressure screenings and emergency equipment demonstrations for the public in the hospital lobby.

An informational display geared toward child safety will be in the hospital lobby to feature literature on poison control, bicycle safety and the hospital's community outreach education program, "Tommy Trauma." The program, developed by the American Trauma Society and coordinated by General's Emergency Services Department, is a slide program depicting children involved in four emergency situations. "Tommy Trauma" is available for children in kindergarten through second grade.

For more information about the program, contact Wilkes-Barre General Hospital's Emergency Services Department at 829-8111, extension 2917.

THE FINAL TWO LECTURES of a three-part series on the United States Constitution will be held on September 24 and October 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the King's College D. Leonard Corgan Library, Jackson Street.

Sponsored by the government and politics department at King's and the Pennsylvania Humanities Council, the lecture series is being held in advance of next year's national celebration of the bicentennial of the signing of the Constitution.

The lecture series open to the public free of admission charges.

Dr. Robert P. Rhodes, professor of political science at Edinboro University, will speak on "The Noble Experiment That Succeeded" on September 24. In his lecture, Rhodes will examine the characteristics of the U.S. Constitution that has allowed it to remain functional throughout history.

"Whose Constitution Is It Anyway?" will be the topic of the final lecture on October 1. Dr. Eugene W. Hickok, Jr., assistant professor of political science and executive director of the Center for the Study of the Constitution at Dickinson College, will deliver the lecture.

More information on the lecture series may be obtained by contacting Dr. Donald Buzinkai, professor and chairperson of the government and politics department at 826-5900, ext. 754.
