Hunlock woman injured

A Hunlock Creek woman was injured early last Tuesday afternoon as a result of a two-vehicle accident along Rt. 118 in Lehman Township. Taken to Nesbitt Memorial Hospital was Anna Muszynsky, 81, of Box 134, RD 3, where she was reported to be suffering from lacerations, contusions and a broken facial bone. According to police, Salvador Rios, 25, of Box 254, Floydada, Texas, attempted to pass six cars while heading East on Route 118, but when overtaking the Muszynsky vehicle, he saw another car approaching from the opposite direction. In order to avoid a head-on collision, Rios swerved to the right, forcing Muszynsky's car off the road. Rios, who was not injured in the mishap, was taken before a magistrate and fined for illegal passing.

Two hospitalized

Two Sweet Valley men were taken to Wilkes-Barre General Hospital following a two car head-on collision Sunday night on Rt. 118 in Ross Township. Christopher Kukosky, 18, RD1, was originally listed in critical condition but has been upgraded to fair, while Ray Owens, 17, RD 1, has also been listed in fair condition. According to police, Kukosky was driving west on Rt. 118 when his brakes failed, causing him to side-swipe two other cars before crashing into a 1986 Ford pick-up. The driver of the truck, Timothy J. Woolcock, of 64 Main St., Millville, was not injured in the mishap, nor were the operators of the two side-swiped vehicles, Timothy Lyons, 103 Sterling Avenue, Dallas, and Charles F. Reeder, of 47 Second Avenue, Kingston.

Parents Without Partners does not begin to touch all the wants of the P.O.P., the abbreviated name of the organization, but one member said it is a beginning and there is a great interest in the organization in this area.

The local chapter places emphasis on activities for the younger children such as trips to Hershey and to Baltimore Harbor, and such places as Gettysburg, Harrisburg and Washington. There are both men and women in the local chapter, approximately 60 percent of them women and the other 40 percent men.

personnel director Steve Buckman. "The lines started to thin out about 11 o'clock, but it will probably pick up again at the 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. session when the college kids come in. In about two weeks we will begin contacting these people after we have gone over their applications."

Insalaco's, which operates nine supermarkets, beer stores, and administrative offices throughout the region, and employs over 700 local residents, will be the main tenant in the Center, occupying 31,000 feet of the 52,000 allocated for the new complex. But so far they have been the only store named to move in. A discount drug store and three other businesses are also set to occupy slots, but won't be named until arrangements are finalized.

Excavation for the $3 million project began late last April on a seven acre site adjacent to the Dallas Township Municipal Building near the Northeastern bank. Humford Equities of Wilkes-Barre is the owner of the land.
