Two men injured

Two men received minor injuries as a result of a two-car collision along Route 309 in Dallas late Sunday night. Treated and released from the Nesbitt Memorial Hospital in Kingstons were Stephen Sudosky, RD 6, Dallas, and Joseph Podskoch, Jr., of 210 Kossack St., Swoyersville. According to police reports Sudosky was traveling south on Route 309 when he attempted to turn left onto Main Street. Podskoch, who was traveling North, said he did see Sudosky's turn signal but thought he was going to wait until he went by before making the turn when he pulled in front of him. Both men were taken to the hospital by the Dallas ambulance.

Women injured

Two Back Mountain women were slightly injured after the cars in which they were riding collided in Lehman Township Sunday afternoon. Treated and released from the Nesbitt Memorial Hospital were Cheryl Ann Gavigan, 19, of 100 Ridge St., Shavertown, and Victoria E. Cadwalader, 37, of RD 2, Dallas. According to state police at Wyoming, Gavigan was traveling north on township Rt. 795 behind a truck when she then turned into a driveway leading into the Lehman campus of Penn State University. In the process of making the turn, however, she hit the Cadwalader vehicle. Both women were taken to the hospital by the Lehman ambulance.

New pasta house

Giuliani's Pasta House, formerly the Hoagie Bar, is currently being renovated by new owner Robert Mines. The Pasta House will be the first of its kind in the Back Mountain.

Two more businesses to open

Under construction along Route 415, Dallas is a new car wash designed and built by James Veras Construction Inc.

The large building with three entrances and three exits is similar to the car wash constructed by Veras along Route 309 in Trucksville, in July, 1983.

Veras said the increased demand for car washing facilities in the Back Mountain prompted him to build the second one in Dallas. He selected the Dallas location in order to make it more convenient for car owners in the Dallas, Harveys Lake and Lake-Lehman areas of the Back Mountain.

Both the Trucksville business and the business presently under construction are owned and managed by the Veras Corporation.

The target date for completion of the Dallas facility is November of this year.

Along Route 309, near the Hanover Bank, Dallas Office, the Hoagie Bar, purchased recently by Robert Mines from John George is undergoing renovations and will open soon as MaMa Giuliani's Pasta House, a division of Minotti's Subs.

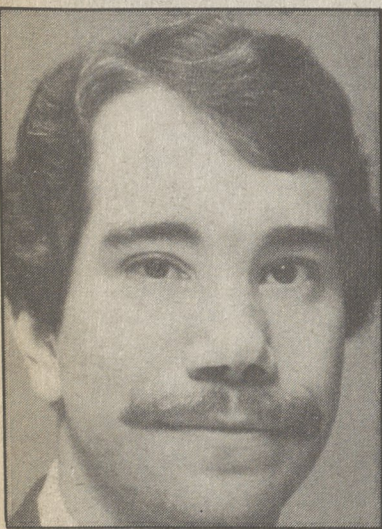

The opening date of the new restaurant, the first of its kind in the Back Mountain, is tentatively set for November 1. It will be family-owned and managed and will feature homemade Italian food at affordable prices for residents of the area.

It will be operated according to Mines' slogan, "Growing with the Community and You."

Mines will continue to conduct his business "Minotti's" located in the 309-415 Plaza, across from the Dallas Shopping Center.
