Consultant will speak at Dallas

Dr. Stephen Glenn, internationally acclaimed psychologist and consultant, will present "How Can We as Parents Develop Capable Young People" on Monday, Oct. 13 at 7 p.m. in the Dallas Junior High School Auditorium.

Co-sponsored by Back Mountain PAK (Parents and Kids — a community service organization focused on preventing problems and fostering development among our youth) and the Dallas School District, the donation at the door is $1.00.

Earlier that day, Dr. Glenn will present an in-service program to teachers in the Dallas School District. Dr. Glenn's teacher and parent programs compliment each other on the issue of developing capable young people. The parent program focuses on the home environment, while the teachers gain insights into classroom management techniques that help kids develop.

Dr. Glenn is the Director of the Family Development Institute where he reaches more than 100,000 people a year with training, workshops, booklets, and courses designed to strengthen individual and family potential. The father of four and foster father of 20, he is also a member of the National Congress of Parent Teacher Association's Education Commission. Dr. Glenn has stated, "I believe that a young person's future as well as the future of our country depends on teaching young people how to cope in healthy ways when problems and temptations arise."

Planning committee

Black Tie Ball slated at PSU

The second annual Arts at Hayfield Black Tie Ball will be held Saturday, Oct. 25 in the lovely Hayfield House ballroom on the Penn State Wilkes-Barre campus in Lehman. Music will be provided by Penn State University's Phi Mu Alpha Dance Band.

The evening, which will run from 8-12 p.m., includes dinner, dancing and a champagne cocktail buffet. Chairpersons for the event are Drs.

Barbara and William Price of Shavertown. Other Back Mountain residents serving on the coordinating committee include Janice Lopasky, Marcia Nelson, and Mary Manzoni, all of Dallas, Dr. Martha Hadsel, Shavertown and G.G. Gregory, Hunklock Creek.

Limited reservations are being accepted. For more information on the evening, contact Joan Diana at the campus at 675-2171.

Decorating Contest set

The Kingston Township Recreation Commission will sponsor a Halloween Room Decorating contest on October 31 at the Westmoreland Elementary School according to Recreation Commission Chairman David Morris. Prizes for the best decorated classroom will be awarded to the students. The Westmoreland Elementary School Principal is Samuel Barbose.

Members of the Recreation Commission will conduct judging on Friday morning at 10 a.m. at the Elementary School.

A home decorating contest is being planned by the Commission for the Christmas Holiday Season.

PSU hosts public forum

Penn State Wilkes-Barre will host a public forum on farm-food-hunger issues, Thursday, Oct. 16, as part of a nationwide observance of World Food Day.

Co-sponsored by Congressional District II of the national organization, Bread for the World, the program will be a live videoconference, linked by satellite to community groups in all 50 states. It will run from noon to 3 p.m. in Hayfield House on the Penn State campus in Lehman.

A panel of experts in Washington, D.C. will make a presentation during the first hour of the forum and then receive questions from local groups during the last hour.

During the intervening hour, from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m., a panel comprised of local participants will respond to the Washington presentation and direct attention to food issues within northeastern Pennsylvania.

Moderator of the local panel is Rev. Kenneth G. Smith, pastor of the Forty Fort Presbyterian Church.

World Food Day observances have been planned in more than 140 countries around the world. The purpose is to raise public awareness of hunger.
