Mountaineer Jonathan Wagner (No. 17) prepares to make a tackle on Nanticoke Area's Mike Modla just after Modla hauled in a pass. Action was Saturday afternoon at Dallas High School football field where the Mountaineers picked up a 15-12 homecoming victory.

Thriller

touchdown pass from Francis to Jonathan Wagner, their second hook-up of the day, Dallas stunned Nanticoke for the game winner.

"I don't know what it is," Dallas coach Ted Jackson said.

"We spend time practicing every day on snaps and special teams. But for some reason, we have been having difficulty the last few games.

"But we didn't quit and I'm proud of our kids for that," Jackson added. "They could have been discouraged when Nanticoke scored that touchdown, but they didn't give up. I think that was a big key when our defense held them on three downs before they scored."

But there was no quit in the Trojans, either. Quarterback Jim McDermott, who had scored twice already, literally had the Mountaineer defense running in circles. When he didn't have time to throw, he made time by eluding the pass rush long enough to search out receivers who had broken free.

After the Francis-to-Wagner shocker, Nanticoke took the ensuing kickoff and began what would have been the game winning drive on its 35. Five completions later by McDermott and the ball was sitting on the Mount 37.

"It's Wyoming Area all over again," assistant coach Bill Silvi said. On fourth down, McDermott lofted a pass into the endzone where Damian Angradi went up for the ball with two defenders. He nearly caught it, too, but it was jarred loose as the game ended.

"He's (McDermott) not the best passer in the league," Jackson said. "But he scrambles very well and that opens things up. We just tried to contain him. We were giving up three and four yards, but we didn't break."

Next week Dallas, now 5-3 and 3-2 in Wyoming Valley Conference play, will host Bishop Hoban in a special 2 p.m. start.

Knights

was almost like next year's team playing.

This Monday the players started working hard for their contest with Crestwood. It is a big game for the Knights. They have Crestwood, Bishop Hoban and Dallas ahead of them. Those games will make them big winners or losers.

"The kids are excited and up for these games," said Gorgone. "The time off gave them time to recover from minor injuries. When we came back, we went right to the basics. It was almost like pre-season practice. We have about 30 young kids coming back next season and this time was good for them. Sometimes, with a game every week, we don't have the time to go over the fundamentals with these kids. The time off gave us a lot of good," he said. "If the boys play with the same attitude, Saturday, they have had while working out they'll do alright."

Gorgone said he believed the Black and Gold game was good for all of the kids because it gave the younger ones an opportunity to play against players like Chris Landmesser, Scott Shafer, Jeff Martin, Chris Kukosky and Jason Cadwalader.

What are the Knights doing to get ready for Crestwood? They know they will have to be able to mix the pass and the run. In the past in some games they have passed too much, in others they have run too much. They will also make changes in their offense, since the Knights have been starting five sophomores and eight juniors.

"The Comets quarterback Chesna and their fullback, McGovern, are two players we will have to stop. Chesna is a great option player," said Gorgone.

"These weeks off have done us a lot of good," he said. "If the boys play with the same attitude, Saturday, they have had while working out they'll do alright."

erupted to score four goals to take the 5-1 win. The Grenadier defense held Susie Slocum in the first half but were unable to stay with her in the second half.

Amy Higgins with an assist by Slocum scored the first goal for the Knights at 7:00 in the first half. GAR's Martina Belardini tied it at 1-1 when she scored unassisted by Kim Cronauer.

Susie Slocum scored her first goal of the game at 14:45 of the second half with an assist by DeGennaro.
