C-T customers in for changes in service

Commonwealth Telephone customers in the 696 Trucksville exchange may be receiving calls from telephone company representatives over the next several weeks, announced Rich Jones, Commonwealth's network switching supervisor. The purpose of these calls is to test new central office equipment which is scheduled to be placed into operation in May.

The $1.2 million project for the Trucksville area includes the installation of a new computer switching system as well as the completion of a remote switch and outside cable.

As part of the conversion process, call testing will be completed by telephone company representatives who will check more than 2,900 phone lines before the May 7 cut-over. Because of this, customers may receive test calls between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Saturday. These test calls ensure that the equipment is fully operational and that the company's records are accurate.

Any customer who doubts the authenticity of the calls may verify the information by calling the telephone company at 675-2101.

Jones said the state-of-the-art equipment will provide customers with the option of choosing enhanced calling features such as call waiting, call forwarding, 3-way calling, speed calling, and fixed call forwarding. In addition, business customers in the Trucksville exchange will have the option of selecting Commonwealth's PASSKEY Services, which are sophisticated communications services available through the central office. Eliminating the need for on-site telephone switching equipment PASSKEY offers these features: busy and don't answer transfer, internal call ring again, consultation hold, call transfer and call pick-up.

In the near future, customers in Trucksville and nearby communities will receive a special newsletter which will explain the service improvements and new calling features in greater depth.

Commonwealth Telephone Company provides service to more than 170,000 customers in Eastern Pennsylvania and is the 13th largest non-Bell telephone company in the United States.

Resident encountering problems

BY BONNIE DOMBROSKI
Staff Writer

James W. Shaffer is building a new log cabin home on Chase Road in Jackson Township. Shaffer and his wife Jean hope to move into it sometime in April. As of yet, they do not have a building permit.

According to Shaffer, when he first went to Robert Culp, Township Zoning Officer, to apply for a permit he was told he could not build unless he subdivided his property. It is a violation of township zoning ordinance to have two homes built on one parcel of land.

Shaffer claims he has no intention of keeping both homes standing. Shaffer also says he will not subdivide because of the expense involved, the time that it would take, and the fact that he feels it is unnecessary. The new structure is being erected just behind the house the Shaffers are presently living in. When the log home is completed, the Shaffers plan to move into it and tear down their original home.

Shaffer says he has done everything that Culp requested including a notarized statement and that it was still not acceptable. He said that Attorney Jack Haley, Solicitor for the Zoning Board, has been very helpful but otherwise he feels he has been the victim of harassment by township officials. Shaffer, who has lived in the township for 20 years, claims that it was suggested to him that he demolish his present home and rent an apartment while his new home is being built on the five-acre parcel of land. He feels this is unfair and unreasonable.

Zoning officer Culp was unable to be reached for comment due to an illness in the family. Township Supervisor Joseph Stager said there should be no problem now in securing the building permit because an escrow account has been set up at the bank holding Shaffer's mortgage.
