Tips for safe fun around the pool this summer

"Parents and homeowners should be especially careful as they open their pools this summer season," said George F. Moody, Chairman of the American Red Cross. Attending the 63rd National Convention of the Humanitarian organization, Moody stressed the importance of safety at home pools.

"There are a number of safety tips that every pool owner should follow, and Red Cross workers nationwide are hoping that an emphasis on safety this year will help prevent tragedies," said Moody. He emphasized the following safety tips:

1. Never allow anyone to swim alone, even for short periods of time, such as when answering the telephone.
2. Have adequate fencing and a gate with a lock to prevent children from unauthorized entry.
3. Keep basic rescue and lifesaving equipment immediately available.
4. Post emergency instructions and telephone numbers conspicuously.
5. Have a first aid kit available.
6. Enforce common-sense safety rules at all times.
7. Make sure that at least one responsible person knows how to administer Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) and give intelligent first aid.

8. Clearly mark the deep and shallow ends of the pool.
9. Encourage responsible parents or other adults to give water safety and swimming instruction to youngsters.
10. Make sure there is adequate filtration to maintain good clarity of the water.
11. Do not permit bottles, glasses, or sharp objects in or around the pool area.
12. Observe personal safety rules, such as not swimming when overheated or overtired, or during an electrical storm.
13. Small plastic pools should be emptied and turned over when not in use.
14. Protection devices such as a pool cover or an underwater alarm system may be considered by the pool owner.

"We hope everyone has a safe swimming season," added Moody. "Please, it is very important for your child and yourself to follow safety rules around pools, especially these first few weeks when many children are first learning to swim."

Many American Red Cross chapters and other organizations offer swimming and water safety training. Pool owners are especially urged to take advantage of the training and make their pools safer places this summer.
