OPEN HOUSE—Open Houses for anyone considering attending college will be held at the Penn State Wilkes-Barre campus, Sunday, July 17, 1:30-3:30 p.m. or Tuesday, July 19, 6:30-8:30 p.m. The program is free. Refreshments will be served. Reservations are requested. Shown seated from left are Jennifer Youngman, Admissions counselor; and Vera Cornish, Financial Aid coordinator. Standing, Nancy Narcum, Student Activities coordinator and John Murphy, Director of Student Programs and Services.

Prospective students can attend Open House at Penn State

High school students and their parents are being invited to take a look at college life at two summer Open Houses at Penn State Wilkes-Barre, Sunday, July 17, 1:30-3:30 p.m. and Tuesday, July 19, 6:30-8:30 p.m.

"By coming to an Open House, those who are just considering the idea of going to college can meet and talk with students and counselors about everything from apartment life to financial aid," said Margie Esopi, assistant director of Student Services.

According to Esopi, the Wilkes-Barre campus of Penn State specializes in associate degree programs in engineering technology and business administration, but also offers the first two years of more than 130 Penn State baccalaureate degree majors. "Our associate degree programs in surveying technology and engineering have 100 percent job placement rates right now for graduates."

Associate degrees can be completed at the campus in just two years in Surveying Technology, Telecommunications Technology, Mechanical Engineering Technology, Biomedical Equipment Technology, Electrical Engineering Technology, Letters, Arts and Sciences and Business Administration.

"We are finding many more out of town students attracted to our campus because of its location and technology expertise. 15 percent of the incoming freshman class are students from out-of-state," said Esopi, who added that there is space for close to 100 students in private apartments within walking distance of the campus, that adds to the campus' attraction.

The Open Houses will feature presentations by current students and members of the Student Programs and Services staff, including Vera Cornish, coordinator of Financial Aid; Nancy Narcum, coordinator of Student Activities; Sean Kelly, assistant director of Student Life; and Mrs. Esopi.

Reservations are requested, and can be made by calling the Penn State Wilkes-Barre Admissions Department at 675-9238 or 1-800-426-2358.

Ronnie Moses, Laura Cashore and Katherine Andrew win essay contest

Wyoming Valley Alcohol and Drug Services announced the winners recently of its sixth annual essay contest, and three Back Mountain students were among those honored for writing against drug abuse.

Seventh grader Ronnie Moses, Dallas Junior High School; Eighth grader Laura Cashore, Gate of Heaven, Dallas, and High School Junior Katherine Andrew, Bishop Hoban High School, won honors for their respective age groups from over one thousand essay entries. The theme of the contest this year was 'education is the key to prevention' and each winner responded his or her original thoughts on how education could be used to combat drug abuse and as a tool for prevention.

The Awards Ceremony was held at Wyoming Valley Alcohol and Drug Services, Inc. on Wednesday, June 1, 1988. Thomas Woods, Director of Creative Programming for WBRE-TV, read the winning essays.
