Parry joins herd improvement plan

James Parry of 30 Acres Angus, Dallas, Angus cattle breeder, has recently enrolled in the Angus Herd Improvement Records program of the American Angus Association, reports Dick Spader, executive vice-president of the national organization with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri.

Angus Herd Improvement Records (AHIR) is a comprehensive within-herd evaluation program used by cattlemen to help them keep records of reproduction, and growth rate on individual animals. Each year hundreds of Angus breeders use AHIR records to produce more pro-fitable, efficient Angus seedstock

By weighing calves at 205 days of age and again at a year of age, breeders not only identify the cattle that grow the fastest and most efficiently, they also identify cows that regularly produce above average calves, and bulls that sire welcomed to Dallas outstanding calves.

maids are needed to take care of many domestic needs that would otherwise fall by the wayside. Ms. Grey began her career as a professional maid 10 years ago with only one home and no intentions of starting a business.

"With a little time and much prayer Master Maid grew into one of the area's busiest cleaning services"said Grey.

Grey's business was initially residential, and grew in volume mostly through word of mouth. She started Master Maid three years ago, and her first commerical contract was with the Dallas Public Library.

'We would like to continue our residential work but also expand our commerical efforts" she said.

Master Maid currently serves a wide variety of places including residential homes, an accounting office, an automobile showroom and a bank.

Grey feels that anyone can dust and sweep but it is the extras she puts into all her cleaning jobs that sets her services apart from others. She specializes her approach to the specific needs of whatever home or office she is cleaning.

All of her staff members are bonded and fully insured. This protects customers and helps to ensure confidence. Grey hopes that business will grow and the extras she puts into every job will help her in
