Sculpture by Henry Schiowitz dedicated to Misericordia Sunday

College Misericordia will dedicate a bronze and marble sculpture by former Dallas resident Henry Schiowitz on Sunday, Dec. 11, which will be permanently located in the college's newly-renovated $2.5 million Hafey-McCormick Science Hall. The dedication ceremony will begin at 2 p.m. with college officials, members of the Schiowitz family and community friends.

The sculpture, entitled "Pause," is being donated by Robert and Rebecca Aben. Aben purchased the sculpture and presented it to the College to be the focal point within The Schiowitz Atrium at the entrance to the building.

Following the dedication on Sunday, sculptor Henry Schiowitz will exhibit several of his works at Regina Hall adjacent to the Rosenn Plaza on the campus of Misericordia from Monday, Dec. 12, to Sunday, Dec. 18. The public is invited to attend the free exhibit each day from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. The display will feature works in bronze, granite, soapstone and marble.

Many of the pieces on display at this exhibit were inspired by Schiowitz' recent world tour of Thailand, Japan, Burma, Bali, Singapore and a five month sojourn in India. The artist plans to spend this year dedicated to creative growth through the exploration of Far Eastern art and techniques.

The placement of "Pause" at Misericordia has special significance to the College because it brings the relationship between Misericordia and the artist full circle. In 1975, the Art Gallery at Misericordia offerred the then 20-year-old Schiowitz an opportunity to present his first one-man show. That exhibit became a starting point in a career that has led Schiowitz around the world on creative ventures and art exhibitions.

In the Wyoming Valley, Schiowitz is most widely recognized for his sculpture of the Gruen Curvex watchface placed at the entrance of the international headquarters of Jewelcor Incorporated at the corner of Wilkes-Barre Boulevard and Market Street in Wilkes-Barre.

Henry Schiowitz is the son of Morton and Rosemary Schiowitz, Dallas.
