WVIA-90 FM to premiere jazz show

WVIA-90 FM, Northeastern Pennsylvania's listener-supported radio station, announces the premiere of a locally-produced series entitled "Swing Street Jazz."

The three-hour jazz series will begin January 8, 1989 on 90 FM. The weekly program, produced and hosted by Dan Evans, will air Sundays at 8 p.m. Evans, a long-time 90 FM on-air personality, has produced such series as "Weekend Jazz" and "For the Folks Down Home."

The first hour of "Swing Street Jazz" will be devoted exclusively to the use of a 4,000-album jazz collection donated by Michael Adams of Overland Park, Kansas. Adams learned of WVIA-FM as result of the holiday program "Christmas Music: The Jazz Feeling," written and produced by Andrew Sordoni and recorded at the 90 FM studios. The program is carried by National Public Radio stations throughout the country and features the artists and genre which most appeals to Adams. Correspondence between Adams and Sordoni developed into a friendship which resulted in the gift to 90 FM.

The album donation, referred to as The Adams Collection, contains many valuable and rare recordings. The gift includes albums by most of the major jazz artists, such as Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Oscar Peterson, Louis Armstrong, Eddie Condon, Ella Fitzgerald, Lionel Hampton, Woody Herman, Billie Holiday, Jay McShann and Bob Wilber. The donation establishes WVIA-FM as one of the major repositories of jazz recordings in the country.

"Swing Street Jazz" according to Evans, will feature a different theme each week, including tributes to various artists and programs on particular styles of jazz. The series' premiere program on January 8 will present excerpts from rare and out-of-print recordings from The Adams Collection. This music sampler will offer listeners a variety of music that is no longer available through commercial recordings.
