College Misericordia dedicates Schiowitz sculpture

College Misericordia recently dedicated the sculpture "Pause" by Wilkes-Barre native Henry Schiowitz. The sculpture was given to the college by Rebecca and Robert Aben and is permanently located in the Schiowitz Atrium, a gift of the Albert, Morton and Nathan Schiowitz families. The atrium is located at the entrance to Misericordia's newly renovated $2.5 million Hafey-McCormick Science Hall. Shown at the dedication are, from left: Jane and Albert Schiowitz, M.D.; Rosemary Schiowitz, the artist's mother; Henry Schiowitz; Robert and Rebecca Aben; Nathan Schiowitz; and Morton Schiowitz, the artist's father. Standing behind the statue are Dr. Bruce Wilson, acting president of College Misericordia and Sr. Mary Denny, provincial administrator.

King memorial planned at Penn State

The Penn State Wilkes-Barre campus will hold a special ceremony to plant a Peace Pole near the Hayfield House Administration Building highlighting Martin Luther King Day ceremonies January 16. Members of the community, student body, staff and faculty are invited for the observance which will run from 12 noon until 1 p.m.

As universal symbols of peace, the peace poles originated in Japan, and have been erected worldwide for the past 10 years. There are more than 200 in the U.S.A., most on college campuses. The Penn State Wilkes-Barre pole was donated by an actress, Ms. Chikae Ishikawa of the Society of Prayer for World Peace. She has personally donated peace poles to Carnegie-Mellon, the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Texas in Arlington, SUNY at Buffalo, Boston University, Gwynedd-Mercy College, and a dozen other places. She contacted the local Penn State campus when on tour in 1987 with "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off."

The six foot, four-sided hand-crafted red cedar pole will hold four message plates bearing the inscription, May Peace Prevail On Earth, in four different languages.

The Wyoming Valley Peace Committee, the Interfaith Peace Center and area school districts have been invited for the ceremony and a luncheon program that will include the movie "Montgomery to Memphis," which will be shown in the Science Center Auditorium. The program is being coordinated by Sean Kelly, assistant to the director of Student Programs and Services.
