Alison Milunich wins first round in geography contest

Allison Milunich, a 6th grade student at the Lehman-Jackson Elementary School recently won the school's geography Bee and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship. The school-level Bee, where students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the new national Geography Bee that is being sponsored by National Geographic WORLD, the Society's magazine for children.

ety will fly all first-place winners from the state Bees to Washington, D.C. to participate in the national Geography Bee finals on May 18 and 19. The first-place national winner will receive a $25,000 college scholarship; the second-place winner, a $15,000 scholarship; and the third-place winner, a $10,000 scholarship.

School winners across the country, including Allison, will now take a written test; up to 100 of the top scorers in each state will be eligible to compete in their state Bee on April 7.

The Bee featured questions on the broad subject of geography-the study of the earth and its inhabitants. All of the questions could be answered with a word or a simple phrase.

Father Petrasko plans class trip to Guyana in June

Father John Petrasko, chaplain and director of Campus Ministry at College Misericordia, recently visited Georgetown, Guyana, to make arrangements for a student group he will accompany in June. The students will participate in a course offered through Misericordia's Religious Studies Department entitled, "Practicum in Christian Ministry."

"The three-credit course is a cross-cultural experience aimed at increasing global awareness," said Father John. "For six weeks beginning in June, students will work in various church sponsored projects, as well as study the history and culture of Guyana through lectures and field trips coordinated by Sr. Noel Menezes, professor of history at Guyana University."

The students will also participate in a reflection process directed by their reading of selected Vatican II Documents.

For nearly 100 years, a special relationship has existed between the Religious Sisters of Mercy—the founders and sponsors of College Misericordia—and the people of Guyana. Since 1894, the Sisters have served in the mission fields of Guyana and in more recent years, encouraged Guyanese students to attend Misericordia. Language is not a barrier because English is a frequently spoken language in Guyana.

Programs of social awareness are an integral part of Misericordia's Campus Ministry Office. Throughout the year, students serve in various community projects. They provide service at the St. Vincent de Paul Soup Kitchen, work with underprivileged children, travel to Kentucky to aid the Christian Appalachian Project, prepare meals and host area homeless in coordination with "Volunteers In Service In Our Neighborhoods (VISION)."

Students interested in being part of the Guyanese course should contact Father Petrasko at Misericordia's Campus Ministry Office by calling 675-2181, ext. 314.
