Kingston Township zoning board tables two requests at short meeting

By CHARLOT M. DENMON
Staff Writer

In less than 45 minutes, members of the Kingston Township zoning board dispensed with the items on the agenda at the April 3 meeting at the township municipal building.

Bill Bachman, in the absence of chairman Justin Bergman, presided over the meeting. Also attending were zoning board member, Richard Staub, zoning officer Ralph Anthony and zoning board solicitor, Atty. Jerome Cohen.

A request for a step-back variance by George Tucker, 25 Roushey St., Shavertown, so he could construct a deck and a swimming pool was tabled due to Tucker's absence as well as the absence of any others from his neighborhood. Zoning officer Anthony told the board that Tucker was in Philadelphia on business and was unable to return in time for the meeting. Vincent Angelicola, Harveys Lake, requested a variance for a non-conforming lot at 122 E. Center St., Shavertown. Angelicola and his attorney William J. McCall, presented a proposal to the board of the proposed structure Angelicola wanted to build on the property he purchased in October, 1986.

Atty. McCall explained that Angelicola planned to combine Lots 30 and 31 to make the 60 feet necessary to build a single family dwelling.

Angelicola said that a home presently on the property would remain but a home in the back is 45 percent demolished and at the present time is being used for storage.

The property was purchased by Angelicola from James King, who inherited it from his father Chauncey King who transferred it to him prior to the ordinance now in effect in Kingston Township. Angelicola said the land in question is open and capable of a well-designed structure which was described as a two-story Cape Cod house.

Everill Chadwick, 124 East Center St., Shavertown, and Dennis Dobinick, who said his land is on the north side of Angelicola objected to Angelicola's building because they contended their property would be injured by big dropoffs because of a large ledge of solid rock on the Angelicola property.

Angelicola said he was a contractor and he would not build a house on the property until he had an engineer determine whether it was feasible.

After a consultation between the zoning board members and the solicitor, Bachman told Angelicola, that the board members would walk the property with the zoning officer and announce their decision at the May 1 meeting at which time Chairman Bergman would be present.
