Herbert Nahas, and Chaplain Mark Rossetti. (C.M. Denmon Photo)

Miss Wilkes-Barre/Scranton prepares for PA pageant

Miss Wilkes-Barre/Scranton, Michelle Kline, recently visited "Thirty Carverton Road" in Trucksville to begin selecting her competition wardrobe for this year's Miss Pa. pageant to be held June 11-17 in Altoona. One of the owners of "Thirty Carverton Road", Debbie Grossman, presented Michelle with a black knit sport skirt and top and black wooden accessories to match. This is the second year that "Thirty Carverton Road" has graciously supported this local non-profit pageant, which is a direct stepping stone to Miss PA, and then Miss America. Michelle Kline, should she win the Miss PA pageant on June 17 would represent our area and state at The Miss America Pageant in September. Until that time, Miss Kline is available for bookings by calling 823-4172. She is a talented singer and an accomplished speaker. Dallas Borough manager leaves

BY CHARLOT M. DENMON
Staff Writer

Dallas Borough is presently without a manager since Gary Allabaugh, who was hired to replace former manager Robert Brown left. "We have been operating all right since Allabaugh has left," Council president Donald Shaffer said. "Our secretary Katherine Strosnider is very capable and has been doing the work efficiently since he left.

"We do hope we will be able to get former manager Robert Brown to come in from time to time to assist with some of the projects underway," Shafer concluded.

Deer Meadow zoning passes court challenge

BY CHARLOT M. DENMON
Staff Writer

In a decision handed down in Luzerne County Court last week by Judge Patrick J. Toole, Jr., the appeal of rezoning land for the Deer Meadow development filed by the Dallas Borough Preservation Association was dismissed.

The judge dismissed the appeal because he believed the borough council followed its zoning ordinance which required public notification of zoning changes.

In his decision Toole stated that failure to provide such notification does not invalidate any recommendations adopted the statute.

The appeal contended that Robert and Beverly Jones, members of the association, with property bordering Deer Meadows, were not notified of a Dallas Borough Council meeting to discuss changing the Deer Meadows tract of land from conservation zoning to residential.

Under conservation zoning, lots must be a minimum of two acres. Residential lots may be as small as 7,000 square feet, or about 1/6 acre.

Donald Shaffer, council president, said the decision confirmed the council's decision to rezone the area was done properly and that Ed Nelen, developer, would now be able to go ahead with construction.

The zoning officer issued Nelen his permit this week and all that remains is that he submit his final plans to the Luzerne County Planning Commission for approval.
