Bill Kubis memory will live in 'his kids'

William W. Kubis

William W. Kubis of Dallas, who died Monday, May 29, was one of those rare individuals who pass this way but once, stopping for a short time and leaving his mark before passing into eternity.

He walked tall through life facing adversity with courage, and overcoming what could have been a life of loneliness after his wife, Anna, died, by dedicating his life to the youth of the Back Mountain from kindergarten through their college years.

Having no children of his own, he found his lifeline in the student-athletes as well as in their coaches, parents and friends. Kubis was a man who believed there was good in everyone and he searched out that good and nurtured it in hundreds of youths who could have traveled the wrong road.

From a Little League farm team game through school events to skating, bowling to band concerts and school dramas, Bill Kubis was always on the sidelines, his sparkling blue eyes watching with admiration the performance of his 'boys and girls'.

Designated the official Dallas Number One fan by some of the Dallas coaches, Bill Kubis was more than that. His encouragement to a frustrated student or athlete, the hundreds of inspirational verses he composed when alone at night and distributed to boys and girls, and his confidence that they could do no wrong sent many of them down the right path to strong character and success. His favorite verse was 'Equipment' which is displayed at the Back Mountain Little League field and in Dallas High School, a verse that will leave forever his impact on youth.

"With this equipment, They all began—Two hands, two feet, two ears, two eyes, And a brain to use, if you are wise. So start for the top and say — I can!", is his message best known to young and adults alike - a message that will guide many Dallas students for years to come.

He moved through life quietly, for many years sending the local paper to Dallas graduates away at school because he wanted them to keep in touch with what their friends back home were doing. For others he took the time to clip and copy certain items and distribute them personally. Others will never forget his words of encouragement when most needed.

Bill Kubis left his mark on others as well as the youth of Back Mountain as parents, coaches and friends remember the words of wisdom spoken to them by the man who dedicated his life to others.

The love and respect young people had for him was apparent last Friday as tears filled the eyes of the hundreds of young men and women who said their final farewells.

Dallas' Number One Fan, who dedicated years of his life to the youth of Dallas, will no longer be present physically at future events, but somehow we can't help but believe he will be there in spirit aware of what those young people to whom he dedicated his life are doing and silently cheering them on to success, not only in school but in life.

That is Bill Kubis' heritage to the boys and girls of Dallas - those whom he loved and respected so much. Through them he will live forever.
