Water commission sends protest to Governor

By CHARLOT M. DENMON Staff Writer

Lack of a quorum made it impossible for members of the Back Mountain Water Commission to conduct official business at the regular meeting, Thursday, July 20, at Kingston Township Municipal Building.

Instead, Joseph Salla, John Molski, David Abod and Ellie Rodda held a work session to discuss the appointment of a committee to prepare an ordinance on well drilling in the Back Mountain area which when completed, will be presented to municipal officials for their approval.

They also discussed a complaint received by Harveys Lake member David Abod concerning a leak near the Honor Roll at Harveys Lake. Abod told the other members that there appeared to be a leak in a pipe in the system owned by Harveys Lake Water Company, a subsidiary company of the Dallas-Shavertown Water Company. Those attending agreed the matter should be reported to the company.

A copy of a letter dated July 14, which was written to Governor Robert Casey, concerning the handling by the Bureau of Safety and Compliance of the PUC of the agreement between the Dallas Water Company and residents of Stone Hedge was read, and copies distributed to each member of the Commission.

The Commission claims the water company has not come forth with an adequate water audit nor held a public meeting as required by the agreement. It further states the PUC, Bureau of Safety and Compliance, has broken the agreement by allowing new hookups without consultation or the required information as required in the agreement.
