Local skaters place in national meet

By CHARLOT M. DENMON
Staff Writer

Trudy Wandel, George Manzoni and Lisa Berger, local roller skaters who competed in national competition in Fort Worth, Texas, for 10 days returned home last week with their skating pro Tony Berger, manager of Dallas Roll-away Rink.

"Trudy Wandel was holding first place going into the eliminations in sophomore ladies figures and tied for third in the finals. The judges broke the tie by checking individual scoring and, as a result, Trudy finished fourth. I was pleased, however, since fourth in the country from among hundreds of skaters is excellent," Berger said.

He also said that Lisa finished eighth after the eliminations in figures and Manzoni, who entered the national competition for the first time, finished 15th in the sophomore men's figures. Wandel finished 12th in free style skating despite having injured her back the week prior to leaving for the competition.

High schools provide plenty of sports opportunities

By CHARLOT M. DENMON

Both Dallas and Lake-Lehman School Districts have a wide variety of athletic and sports programs for the high school students, and coaches of both schools are looking forward to working with some outstanding male and female athletes from last school year as well as some new ones moving up into high school.

The fall sports programs are the same in both districts, although the number of students sometimes places one sport or another in different divisions within the Wyoming Valley High School Conference.

Lake-Lehman Coach Rich Gorgone again this season hopes to have a strong football program despite losing some outstanding athletes through graduation.

Girls field hockey coach Jean Lipski always fields a strong team and has a fine group of young athletes returning this season. One of the newest and rapidly developing into one of the most popular sport is soccer and Ray Dennis is planning to keep his team in strong contention in the league again as they were last season.

Bob Rogers who coaches the girls volleyball team, comes through with a competitive team every year and hopes to do the same this year and golf coach Mike Sharok has a dedicated group of golfers returning this season.

At Dallas, football coach Ted Jackson has had a championship team for the past two seasons and despite losing 18 starters through graduation has replaced them with younger players and is working hard at putting another competitive team on the field against the school's competition.

Soccer Coach John McCafferty and his assistant is hoping to recruit new players this season to replace those seniors he lost by graduation. McCafferty has a reputation for fielding a highly competitive group of athletes.

Girls field hockey coach Robyn Jones has completed her Master's program and will be back to coach the girls to a winning season. Coach Sara Jane Griffen will be back to coach the girls interested in volleyball.

Golf Coach Tom Kilduff will continue to develop the Dallas golf team which has always been a strong sport at Dallas and head Coach William Kvashay hopes to have some strong runners come out for cross country to try to match last year's team which took the district championship and placed second in state competition. He is also hoping for greater numbers of athletes to come out for the girls cross country team.

Whether the two teams standings count in the league standings when they compete against one another, it proves to be an exciting performance for the fans since on the athletic field the students are keen rivals despite being friends the rest of the time.

Sembrat honored by Dallas Kiwanis Club

Steve Sembrat, sports writer for The Times Leader, was honored by members of the Dallas Kiwanis Club for his outstanding contributions to the Dallas Kiwanis sponsored Annual Senior High School Girls All-Star Softball game. Steve's personal interest in supporting this annual event has been most commendable. His devotion, initiative and sincere interest in this softball game begins with the first planning meeting each year and culminates with being ever present at the game. Each year the Dallas Kiwanis Club members and coaches select an individual for special honors. A plaque is presented to that individual at the end of the All-Star game. Pictured, from left, during the presentation are: Tex Wilson, All Star game committee; Robert Dolbear, All Star game committee; Steve Sembrat, John Navich, Dallas Kiwanis Club President; and George McCutcheon, All Star game committee.
