Local Juveniles to challenge state-wide underage drinking law following KT raid

By SCOTT A. DAVIS
Post Staff

The new state-wide underage drinking law may be challenged in the Luzerne County Court of Common Pleas as four Kingston Township juveniles have appealed their convictions for being on the same premises where underage drinking was occurring, which resulted in their loss of driving privileges.

The juveniles are four of 39 Back Mountain teenagers who were arrested during a police raid of a private party in Trucksville July 29. Police said several juveniles were drinking alcohol at the party.

All 39 juveniles were charged with "constructive possession." The new law says that juveniles present at any party serving alcohol to underage drinkers can be arrested for underage drinking, even if the juvenile did not actually drink alcohol.

Eleven of the juveniles were found not guilty. The 25 remaining juveniles were sentenced to community service averaging 16 hours. All community service sentences will be fulfilled in Kingston Township.

The appeals, however, do not contest the "constructive possession" clause of the new law. The appeals contest a clause in the law which permits the suspension of driver's licenses of juveniles arrested at underage drinking parties, even if no cars or driving were involved in the arrest.

All the juveniles found guilty will lose their driver's licenses for 90 days and receive 5 points against their licenses.

District Magistrate Earl Gregory handed down the rulings.

The appeals were filed by Attorney Michael Butera and Attorney Larry Brand on behalf of the four juveniles, whose names are being withheld because they are minors.

The appeals are expected to challenge the new law, saying since no cars were involved in the party, suspension of licenses may be unwarranted.

No date has been set for the appeals.
