found to contain over eighty times the legal safe limit of bacteria.

Since Mann's discovery, contamination has been found throughout the community, with several other readings registering over eighty times the legal safe limit. Most of the testing has been done at the Kirby Health Center.

Kirby Health Center's Dr. John Turner characterized the problem facing the lake as "a definite health risk."

Before the cameras were brought in Monday, the sewer authority was dye testing in an attempt to locate the contamination problem. The tests were successful in finding two contamination sources, residences that were not connected to the sewer system, but contamination has continued to plague the area.

The sewer authority and the borough council have been sharply criticized by the residents of Harveys Lake in the past months, but both government bodies have continuously insisted they are doing everything they can to find the source of the problem.

for adoption by the respective governing bodies relating water restrictions and rationing, act as a liaison between local water companies as well as state and federal agencies, pursue funding through state and federal grant programs to improve local water facilities and to advocate legislation to protect water resources.

Faison explained that the response to the survey has been successful but now the time has come to determine how the commission is to receive funding for the equipment and space needed, to be able to present the commission's proposals to the respective governing bodies, to discuss uniform codes, ordinances and co-operation in order to carry out the guidelines pertaining to water.

The members of the Commission believe that this discussion between both parties will avoid problems in the future and save dollars as well.

The representatives of the Commission hope to be in touch with the municipal officials in the near future.

Dallas High urges test registrations

Dallas Senior High School students in grade 10 are encouraged to register for the National Education Development Test (NEDT) that will be administered Tuesday, October 17. It is advisable for students who will be taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and going on to college to take the NEDT at this time.

Students interested in taking these tests should register in the guidance office. The registration fee is $3.75 and must be paid by Friday, October 13. No late registration, or registration without fee can be accepted.

The various tests will take approximately three hours to complete, and they will measure the following intellectual skills: English Usage, Mathematics Usage, Social Studies Reading and Natural Sciences Reading.

Approximately two months after the test is administered, each student will receive a Student Handbook. This booklet will report his/her scores and will help in the interpretation of those scores. The information derived from the NEDT, when combined with other relevant information, can be used to provide the student with a measure of his/her educational development thus far and to assist him/her in forming realistic educational and vocational plans.

If you have any questions, feel free to contact either Mrs. Russin or Mr. Shevock, guidance counselors, at the senior high school.

Patricia Russin, guidance counselor at Dallas Senior High School has announced that juniors will be able to join one million other students around the world in taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) this fall. The test, co-sponsored by the College Board and National Merit Scholarship Corporation is an important step in making college plans.

Scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 21, at 8:30 a.m. (doors open at 8 a.m.) the test measures verbal and mathematical aptitude, two abilities important in doing college work. The test can also lead to other opportunities for high school students; they can enter the competition for scholarships administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation; they can participate in College Board's Student Search Service which is used by hundreds of colleges interested in students like them, also they can get a good idea what the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) is like.

Juniors who are interested in taking PSAT/NMSQT are to register in the guidance office at Dallas Senior High School. The fee for taking the test is $5.50 payable upon registration. The deadline for registering for the test is October 18.
