Noted pacifist to speak at Misericordia

Colman McCarthy, a noted journalist, teacher, pacifist and founder and director of the Center for Teaching Peace in Washington, D.C., will visit College Misericordia on Monday, Oct. 23 from 3-5 p.m. While on campus, McCarthy will meet with the students and faculty, and will present a speech entitled "Rethinking and Reshaping the World: A Challenge for the '90s." at 3 p.m. in The Blacktop Lounge, Alumnae Hall. An informal reception will follow the speech.

McCarthy, a syndicated columnist with the Washington Post, will deliver a speech on "Perspectives on Nonviolence for a World in Conflict," Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the J. Carroll McCormick Ministry Center, King's College.

McCarthy is an adjunct professor of peace studies at American University, and currently is teaching the course "Alternative to Violence" at the University of Maryland and two Washington area high schools.

McCarthy has written for the Post for more than 20 years and is known for his liberal views, personal writing style, and passionate support for peace and justice efforts. His columns are syndicated in 60 newspapers across the country.

McCarthy's visit is sponsored by the Interfaith Resource Center for Peace and Justice in conjunction with Misericordia, Sisters of Mercy Justice Coalition, King's College and the Holy Cross Congregation, Wilkes College, Luzerne County Community College, Penn State Wilkes-Barre and Northeast Regional Ministry in Higher Education.

Mock rape trial will be held October 24

The Victims Resource Center will present its 11th annual Mock Rape Trial with Judge Patrick J. Toole, Jr., presiding over a case of date rape in Wilkes-Barre at the Luzerne County Courthouse on Tuesday, October 24, at 7 p.m. The Honorable Judge Toole will charge the jurors and instruct the audience on how a real case would proceed. Jurors are volunteers chosen from the attending public who decide the verdict after hearing a condensed version of what an actual trial would be like if the victim of a date rape chose to prosecute.

Judge Patrick J. Toole victims with some rights. The defendant's right to a fair trial is, of course protected by the U.S. Constitution.

Judge Toole will be joined by Assistant District Attorney Denise Niedzielski as prosecutor and by Attorney Peter Paul Olszewski, Jr., as defense counsel. Debbie Brandt, VRC staff, will portray the victim of the date rape while Mike Febbo, a College Misericordia student/actor, will portray the defendant who allegedly committed the rape.

Part of Judge Toole's task will be to explain how the victim's past history has no bearing on the case since many people are unaware that Pennsylvania law provides the purpose of the Mock Rape Trial is to show the cooperative support network with the Court of Common Pleas, the District Attorney's Office and others ready to enact their everyday roles to help the victims. Another performance will be held in Hazleton with the Honorable Judge Bernard C. Brominski presiding and Tom Marsilio, Assistant District Attorney, prosecuting. The site of the Mock Rape Trial has been changed to the High Acres Penn State Campus of Hazleton in the Frank C. Kostos Classroom Building. The performance will be held on Thursday, Oct. 26, at 7 p.m.

This year in November, two follow-up programs on how to prevent date rape and other forms of acquaintance rape are being planned, one on the King's College campus and one on the High Acres Penn State/Hazleton campus in South Residence Hall on November 13 at 8 p.m.

The public is invited to both the Mock Rape Trial and to the follow-up presentations. There is no fee for the Mock Rape Trial but reservations are required and may be obtained by calling 823-0766 in Wilkes-Barre, 454-7200 in Hazleton or 836-5544 in Tunkhannock. Programs on acquaintance rape prevention are also open to the public.

General launches anti-drug program

Wilkes-Barre General Hospital recently hosted a luncheon at the Sheraton Crossgates, Wilkes-Barre for area junior and senior high school principals to introduce "The Trauma of Drinking, Drugs and Driving," a program aimed at educating junior and senior high school students about the devastation caused by drinking and driving.

To help kick-off the program Candice Earley, star of the popular ABC daytime soap opera "All My Children," addressed program attendees.

The "Trauma of Drinking, Drugs and Driving," offered by General Hospital in conjunction with the American Trauma Society - Pennsylvania Division, is provided to schools free of charge. The anti-drinking message is conveyed through a series of graphic depictions and statistical information.

The program is coordinated by Joanne Parrish, R.N., C.E.N., Department of Emergency Medicine, Wilkes-Barre General Hospital. For more information, call 829-8111, extension 2905.

Consultant team to lead Mercy Conference

Evelyn Eaton Whitehead, Ph.D., a developmental psychologist, and James D. Whitehead, Ph.D., a pastoral theologian, will be the speakers for the Fourth Mercy Executive Development Conference to be held Thursday, Oct. 19, at Mercy Center in Dallas. Their theme will be "The Promise of Partnership - Exploring Our Experience of Collaboration in Ministry."

This conference was initiated by the Scranton Province Leadership Team in 1986 to provide continuing education for Sisters of Mercy and their partners in ministry who serve as executives, administrators, and managers of Mercy-sponsored works and institutions.

Topics the Whiteheads will address during the morning session opening at 9:30, will be "Changing Images of Ministry: From Parenting to Partnership" and "Lay and Religious Partnering in Catholic Institutions." Following a luncheon break, the agenda will include "The Significant Play of Collaboration."

The Whiteheads are consultants in education and ministry through Whitehead Associates, which they established in 1978 in South Bend, IN. They contribute regularly to programs of ministry education, leadership development, and adult formation in faith, and have co-authored several books.

The conference will conclude with a ceremonial presentation of the first Mercy Award and a reception honoring the first recipient - the Catherine McAuley Center of Scranton, which maintains housing sites and programs in Lackawanna and Luzerne counties. The center provides temporary shelter for women and their children who are in a crisis which leaves them either homeless or without substantial resources.

The Mercy Award, a sculptured piece titled "Compassionate Service," was designed by Sr. Regina Kiel, RSM, of Studio One, Mercy Center. It was established by the Province Leadership Team to recognize Mercy-sponsored institutions and works within the province for their extraordinary demonstration of compassion, justice and commitment to quality over a five-year period.

Stage show to highlight Chassidic Festival

A spectacular stage production of song, dance and music, performed by top Israeli artists, is coming to Wilkes-Barre on Thursday, October 26 at Wyoming Valley West Middle School at 7:30 p.m. and is sponsored by the Jewish Community Center.

This year marks the 20th anniversary of the Israeli Chassidic Festival. The 1989 Israeli Chassidic Festival is a tribute to the energy, devotion and talents of the many people who have been involved with the Festival over the years, artistically and in management.

In tribute to all those who made it happen, this year's show is the "best of the best". It includes old favorites, songs from past years which are superb but for various reasons, have been lost in time and some of Israel's current "hits". So there will be the familiar, the favorites and songs which reflect Israel today.

In this special anniversary year, the Israeli Chassidic Festival not only draws on the best of the musical material over the years, but also on the best of her creative artists. From Director Ofer Shafir, Musical Director Miron Minister to the performers, many have been members of the past Israeli Chassidic Festivals.

Ofer Shafir was a cast member of the 1981 Festival and went on to build a successful career in the musical theatre of Israel. From 1986 comes Miron Minister who is Musical Director and Yuval Caspin who has designed the costumes for the best of both Israeli and overseas shows, including the highly successful "40 Years and a Song" which toured in 1987.

And then the cast! "Joseph and his Technicolour Dream Coat" and "Halleluyah Hollywood" are familiar to all. Cast members of these amongst others, Ben Yosef is a very talented singer, dancer and pianist. Last year his talent was on display in "40 Years and a Song". Currently he is a member of the Haifa Theatre Group.

Yael Levy, Sharon Soker and Nitzan Zitzer have all spent part of their childhood in the United States and are fluent in English.
