School groups invited to Brambleberry Witches show

Attention School Groups - only two weeks left to make your reservations! A very special performance is scheduled for 10 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 9, for school groups of 20 or more. Tickets are discounted to $3.50 for this performance. Seating for these School Performances is determined by the first paid reservation in—first seated basis. So hurry and call today!

The Brambleberry Witches, the musical, is a delightful tale of two witches who cheated their way through Mrs. Primby's College of Witchcraft & Black Magic because they were too good to be bad. Elmira and Emmeline get their "assignment" and fly (hitch-hike because their brooms malfunction) to Northern Scotland and to Brambleberry Castle. And the story continues from there.

This full musical production has colorful costumes, props and full stage scenery, as well as professional actors, musicians and dancers.

The music and dancing is very lively in The Brambleberry Witches, and sure to entertain youngsters of any age. The show is written in such a way, with some funny, satirical bits, that is just for the adults in the audience. For example, the local bully, "Terrible Terry", has strong overtones of Marlon Brando playing Stanley Kowalski. And when the villagers beg the two good witches to stay on in their town, they dance about chanting happily a la Sally fields, "They like us! They really like us!"

Lake-Lehman band dance Friday

A cash contribution in the amount of $2,000 to be used toward the purchase of the school's football goal posts from the Lake-Lehman Football Club was accepted by the board with gratitude.

Angela Patla, a junior at Lake-Lehman Senior High School, was selected as one of the semi-finalists in the Miss Pennsylvania U.S.A. Pageant held Sept. 22-24, in Monroeville, Pa.

Angela, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Patla of Sweet Valley, was one of 97 contestants from all sections of Pennsylvania. Her application selected from among 700 entries.

Angela spent Sept. 22, 23 and 24, at the Howard Johnson Hotel in Monroeville where the contestants went through three categories—a personal interview, a swimsuit modeling, and an evening gown modeling.

Angela was one of the top 15 selected by the judges. These 15 finalists then had to go through the same requirements with the exception that this time the interview was done on stage.

Angela attended the models workshop in Wilkes-Barre from which she graduated two years ago. She now does fashion shows modeling casual and informal clothes.

Recently she won the Pennsyl-
