

Kelly seeking reelection to HL council

Ed Kelly is a graduate of Kingston High School and Key Management in Business. He has been employed by J. S. Raub Shoe Corp. for 34 years as supervisor for East Pennsylvania and New York area. He was elected to council in 1985. His first year he was vice president of finance; second year chairman of the road department; third year chairman of the police department and recreation department; and is currently serving as president of council.

Other than serving on council Kelly is involved in many community activities. He is treasurer of the Luzerne County Fair, vice president of Daniel C. Roberts Fire Company of Harveys Lake, president of Lake Silkworth Lions club and vice president of Lake-Lehman Boosters club. He also belongs to Harveys Lake Protective Association, Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, and is a member of the Alderson Methodist Church.

He has been married to his wife, Joan, for 20 years. They have two children, Joanne who is attending Penn State and Edward, who is currently a senior at Lake-Lehman. They reside at Outlet Drive, Harveys Lake.

HL to collect glass, newspapers and aluminum

By SCOTT A. DAVIS

Harveys Lake is taking a major step towards recycling in the Back Mountain this weekend. The Borough will host the first recycling collection in the Back Mountain to accept glass, aluminum, and newspapers (not magazines) on Saturday.

The collection is unique because of the items being collected; aluminum, glass, and newspaper. Municipalities in the past would not accept newsprint because once collected it is difficult to find a facility willing to accept it.

The collection will be held at the Borough Municipal Building located on Route 415 entering the lake. Council President Edward Kelly announced the project at last Tuesday Night's council meeting. Kelly could not be reached for more information on the drive, but did say he thought the collection is the first of its kind to be held in the Back Mountain.

Several Back Mountain and other Luzerne County communities are struggling with the subject of recycling. A state mandate has forced most municipalities to find an acceptable recycling program by 1991. Dallas Township and Kingston Township are required to form such plans.

The mandate has fallen under harsh criticism from local garbage collectors who say they fear the added burden that may be placed on them could lead to bankruptcy. Others have expressed fears that larger organizations such as Waste Management, a multi-national waste disposal corporation, may be contracted by the municipalities to collect recyclable materials. These local collectors say they fear the opening of the Back Mountain to the larger corporations would mean the end of the local business.

Joseph Bren, of Galka-Bean, said at a meeting with state and local officials in April that local collectors could not compete in the price market with the larger companies.

The idea of calling in larger companies, such as Waste Management, was one of the proposals set forth for review by the Back Mountain Recycling Committee last week.

Alleged arsonist's trial remains delayed

By SCOTT A. DAVIS

No new date has been set for the trial of a Trucksville firefighter charged with two counts of arson. A trial was postponed two weeks ago while the Public Defender's Office seeks police reports regarding the case.

John Joseph Tibus, 30, is facing two arson charges and is suspected of setting several other blazes in the Back Mountain and surrounding communities.

A spokeswoman for the District Attorney's Office confirmed no new date had been set. "No date has been set yet," she said. "I do not know if he will be put on the next trial list or not, but there is nothing yet."

The spokeswoman directed any further question over to Tibus' attorney, who was unavailable.

Tibus was arrested August 22, 1988 for allegedly setting a blaze that destroyed Stiner's Barn on August 14, 1988.

On August 31, 1988 he was charged for attempting to set the same barn ablaze on June 27, 1987.

The trial was postponed when Tibus' attorney, Assistant Public Defender Jonathon Blum, requested evidence other than Tibus' statements regarding the charges. Among other items, the defender said he wants more police reports regarding the case.

Tibus was to stand trial during a two week period which began two weeks ago in Luzerne County Court.

The fire Tibus was arrested for ended a rash of 26 arson fires that struck the Back Mountain beginning in May 1987. Tibus is a suspect in several of those blazes, and police said he has confessed to many of the fires.

Road repairs this week

Maintenance Manager, Matthew R. Collura, has announced the following road work schedule for the week of October 23:

BRUSH CUTTING - Lehman Rd. to Outlet Rd. and Meeker Rd. in Lehman and Lake Twps.

DRAINAGE REPAIR - SR 4016 in Hunlock and Union Twps.

have to be displayed on a vehicle for six months. Failure to display the plate would result in a 180-day suspension of operating privileges.

"Perhaps by requiring repeat offenders to display plates that indicate their DUI status to others, we can deter behavior that could lead to subsequent violation or accidents," Saurman said.

JUDICIAL REFORM - Bringing judicial candidates for Pennsylvania's higher courts closer to the people is the aim of legislation developed by Rep. James J. Gallen (R-Berks). Gallen said he would attempt to amend legislation in the House to create geographic election districts for Supreme, Superior and Commonwealth courts.

Currently, the majority of judges sitting on the appellate courts are from the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh areas. Creation of election districts by region would guarantee geographical balance on the court, said Gallen. He said creation of the districts would also institute a degree of accountability to the voters.

"Local campaigning could be more personal, allowing the people to more closely analyze the personalities, legal philosophies and qualifications of candidates," Gallen said.

Here is a summary of important events that occurred on Capitol Hill recently from Rep. Scott Dietterick, 120th Legislative District.

ANTI-DRUG MEASURES PASS HOUSE - The House this week approved 15 bills aimed at cracking down on the use and sale of illegal drugs in Pennsylvania. One bill would automatically revoke the driver's license of any one convicted of a drug violation for at least 90 days. Subsequent violations would result in the license being revoked for longer time periods.

Other measures would increase penalties for the sale of drugs (including the death penalty in certain situations), prohibit the use of some telephone pagers by students and require schools to institute courses on the dangers of steroid abuse.

One bill was amended to raise the legal age for purchasing cigarettes in Pennsylvania from 16 to 18. However, an amendment which would have regulated the use of assault weapons in the state was defeated. All of the proposals were sent to the Senate for consideration.

DRUNK DRIVING IDENTIFICATION - Rep. George E. Saurman (R-Montgomery) this week announced legislation requiring repeat drunk driving offenders to display a special license plate identifying them as second-time DUI offenders.

Under the bill, the plate would

President notes Post's 100th year

President George Bush sent a message of congratulations to The Dallas Post on its 100th year of publishing. The letter arrived too late to be included in last week's special edition commemorating the event.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON
October 17, 1989

I was delighted to learn that this year marks the 100th anniversary of The Dallas Post, and I wanted to congratulate all who celebrate this milestone of public service.

Nothing is more vital to good government and to the well-being of any community than that each and every citizen be well informed. We look to our newspapers to fulfill this responsibility and to give focus to our lives and to the world around us, especially today when the pace of events can seem overwhelming. Other means of communications might be quicker and more vivid, but reading enables us to take our time, to think, to question, and even to have the luxury of doing it over again. We would feel lost without our newspapers.

I can well appreciate how much your publication has meant to the people of your community over the years. It has been the "family album" and a link to the world, a record of happenings, great and small, that people care about and want to remember.

To the staff and management of The Dallas Post -- and to all of its loyal readers -- Barbara and I send good wishes on this banner year. May you have many more.

Spock named HL Assistant Police Chief

By SCOTT A. DAVIS
Post Staff

One month after the Harveys Lake Borough Council denied the nomination of Ronald Spock for Assistant Police Chief, The lake patrolman has been named to the post.

Spock was nominated at September's council meeting, but a technicality forced the council to deny the nomination. According to Civil Service Codes adopted by the council, a single nomination was acceptable for the Assistant Chief position. However, the council codes spell out that at least three nominations must be made.

Following a five minute executive meeting in private, the council decided to delay the appointment of an Assistant Chief until the next meeting. That meeting was held last Tuesday and Spock was appointed the new Assistant Chief of Harveys Lake.

Spock is a five year veteran of the police force. He lives at Lakeview Terrace, Harveys Lake.
