able to help them with personnel. We also have an emergency squad on stand-by we can call in when needed."

Ryan said that as of Monday morning the local facility had an inmate population of 1950 which could change several times during the one day. He also said the facility had 336 guards, who worked various shifts and in total a staff of 550 employees, most of whom could also do custodial duty.

"Our budget this year is $20 million for staff only. In this area we have a good quality of employees presently working and more of the same quality on a waiting list.

Although we would like to operate at 100 percent staffing, I do agree with Commissioner Owens at present," Ryan said.

Despite Owens' explanation and Ryan's agreeing with him, the local citizens are not satisfied and have planned to include it on the agenda of the Citizens Advisory Committee for the next meeting with representatives of the facility which is in January.

In addition, Sen. Lemmond, Representatives Jarolin, George Hasay and Scott Dieterick emphasized to Owens that they would continue to request additional officers at the Dallas Correctional Institution.
