SINGING AROUND THE WORLD - Dallas native Darci Davis, right, is part of an international singing group from Liberty University in Virginia. She is shown here with fellow singer Howie Cruthers.

The LIGHT singers will be performing two shows on Sunday at the Fellowship Evangelical Free Church. These shows will feature a media presentation about a recent trip to the Soviet Union. The public is urged to attend. (Post Photo/ Rich Johnson)

International singers include Dallas native

A very special program will take place this Sunday morning at the Fellowship Evangelical Free Church as a group of young singers from Liberty University present a unique concert.

What makes this program especially different is that there will be a mixture of international and local flavor from the group. The students are from all parts of the world, with one of the singers, Darci Davis, being a native of Dallas.

For Davis, and the rest of the LIGHT singers, the opportunity to travel around the world and minister to others is something very special. "This is a blessing," Darci said during an interview last week. "I've been doing this for four years, I've been around the world, and I love it," she said.

Davis, a senior at Liberty University, which is located in Lynchburg, Virginia, returned to the area during spring break. However, it wasn't all a break. Being part of the singing group is a lot of work, even when school is not in session.

Davis, along with another singer, Howie Cruthers, were in town only during the week. On weekends the two traveled back to Virginia where they would meet with the rest of the group and travel to different churches to perform.

This type of campaign, although grueling at times, also appeals to Cruthers. Being on the move is something he grew up with. When he was seven years old his family moved to South America where his parents are missionaries.

"I grew up on the road," he said. "When we are on the road it isn't tourism its work, but it really pays off. Not financially but in other ways," he added.

The Liberty singers are a non-profit singing group that spends most of the year traveling around the country. During the summer two different groups head out to different countries to perform and spread the word of God.

Last summer the group with Davis and Cruthers traveled to Chile, Argentina and Brazil, a trip that they will repeat this summer because they were very successful last year.

During their shows in the United States the group uses a media presentation featuring their tours around the world. This Sunday the group will put on two shows at the Evangelical Free Church on Hildebrandt Road. The show, "All Over the World" will feature the 1989 tour to Russia.

These kinds of shows help the students raise the money needed to travel overseas during the summer. The shows will be at 8:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m.

These trips have been so successful for Davis and Cruthers that the two plan on going back to Chile after graduation, maybe to become full time missionaries.
