C-TEC opens new customer service center

Paul W. Mazza, executive vice president of C-TEC Cable Systems, recently announced the relocation of the Company's customer service functions for its New York and New Jersey operations to a new office in Dallas, PA.

One of the top 50 multisystem cable television operators in the country, C-TEC Cable Systems serves more than 175,000 subscribers in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Michigan. The opening of the new Customer Service Center on Lake Street in Dallas reflects the Company's decision to combine the New York and New Jersey customer service functions into one center that would provide enhanced customer service capabilities. The 44 new customer service representatives C-TEC hired to staff its Customer Service Center will be responsible for serving approximately 65,000 subscribers in the Company's fast-growing metropolitan service areas in New York and New Jersey.

Among the enhancements the new center will offer are longer operating hours (8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday).

Dallas Kiwanis thanked for disaster help

"You have proven that there is one force more powerful than mother nature...Human Nature." A special certificate with this wording was presented to the Dallas Kiwanis Club thanking them for their donation to the American Red Cross disaster relief fund.

The Dallas Kiwanis Club is one in many that have come together in such a time of need. The club collected $200 to contribute to the fund and the funds went to everyone affected by Hurricane Hugo to the California Earthquake.

Bunching the daffodils

Three troops of Girl Scouts worked together to sell, prepare, and deliver more than 2,100 bunches of daffodils to the Back Mountain area last week. The project was done to help the American Cancer Society with its annual fundraiser. The girls worked many nights at the Trucksville United Methodist Church getting the flowers ready to be delivered. The daffodils were shipped from the state of Washington and had to be separated and wrapped for individual sale. Also, the girls spent last Friday selling flowers and area banks and other establishments. The Girl Scout troops taking part in the work were: Troop #622, whose leader is Karen Adams and assistant is Pat Zikor; Troop #630, with leader Jamie Kozemko and assistant Marlene Miller; and Troop #631, whose leader is April Scheller.

Shown above are the girls as they take a break from the work. Rural Health Corporation of Northeastern Pennsylvania

Pennsylvania State Immunization Services Offered at Various Sites

The Pennsylvania Department of Health in Luzerne County is no longer providing well-child (baby clinic) and immunization services through the State Health Center. These services are being provided by: Rural Health Corporation Centers in Shickshinny (542-4141), Black Creek (384-3201), Freeland (636-1556), and Valley Pediatrics in Edwardsville (288-1188); Hazleton Pediatric Associates, (455-9589), Bethany Venit, M.D. (455-8557), and Nicholas Martyak, M.D., Hazleton (455-9531).

This program provides preventive health care and required immunizations for children from birth through five years of age who cannot access such services through traditional service system. The physician offices will charge for services, but a sliding fee scale based on family income is available. Families who feel they may qualify for the sliding fee scale should inquire about it at the time an appointment is made. Immunization services for individuals over five years of age are available on a fee-for-service basis.

The Family Practice Residency Program in Kingston (288-7451) only provides immunizations for children ages six and over.

These services are supplemental to continuing care being provided by children's family physicians or pediatricians.

For an appointment, patient or client should call the site most convenient for them and request an appointment through the State Immunization Program.
