Students in the Children's Literature class at College Misericordia observed American Education Week, Wednesday, Nov. 14, by performing puppet shows and Shadow skits to two third grade classes from Gate of Heaven School at the Back Mountain Memorial Library.

Erica Magor, Michelle Barletta, Laura Horvath and Regina Merkel did the skits in the reading room of the library for a period of 45 minutes. The shadow skit told the story of 'The Fisherman's Wife and the Magic Fish'.

In the children's library, children's literature students ran the library during Story Hour telling children's stories through the use of puppets.

Students in charge of the story hour were Leane Lipinski and Kristy Taylor. Sophomore Laura Horvath of Dallas and Regina Merkel did the stories for the Gate of Heaven third grade students whose teachers are Cathy Evans and Michele Fairis.

Sr. Pat McCann is instructor of the children's literature class.

New building, 1990.

New dining area suits customers at Grotto's

Less than two years after a fire destroyed the building that housed Grotto's Pizza at Harveys Lake and new and bigger building has been opened to pizza lovers.

Last Thursday marked the first day that the newest dining area at the restaurant was open to the public for dining and the public seems to enjoy the new look.

Although an official opening ceremony is scheduled for a later date, many of Grotto's customers feel the highlight of the new opening is going on now.

"This is a beautiful area," said Janine Davis of Wilkes-Barre. "We haven't been out here in some time but the whole building is beautiful."

The latest area to be opened was a large dining room that faces Harveys Lake. Ground breaking for the newest building was held earlier this year and the owners will be holding a ceremony when everything is completed. Even though customers go to the restaurant for the food, many say that the new building adds a lot to the business.

"This is a nice atmosphere to eat in," said Carl Moyer of Jackson Township. "There aren't many places where you can take a family and have a nice sit down atmosphere like this."

Gerry Lind of Harveys Lake said that the new building attracted her to stop in at the restaurant. "I drive past this every day and I finally decided to stop in and see if it was as nice on the outside as it looked on the inside."

Employees of the shop said that they like the improvements that have been made and said they think that more customers will be dining at the restaurant now that the new dining area is open and word gets around to the community.
