A new 'Rumpelstiltskin' at Montessori school

Rumpelstiltskin takes a new twist when Touchstone Theater of Bethlehem presents the classic tale at 2 p.m. Sunday, January 27, in the Wyoming Valley Montessori School.

Part of the school's Kids Arts series, the performance is free and open to the public.

Playwright Sara Zielinka has drawn on versions of the Rumpelstiltskin tale from around the world to create Touchstone's version in which even the audience must help the young woman escape from her endless duties of weaving straw into gold.

Duffy and the Deveil from Cornwall, Tom Tit Tot from England, The Ogre Who Built a Bridge from Japan and the popular German story of Rumpelstiltskin are interwoven to create a fresh interpretation of the tale.

True to the most common versions, the story features a young woman who weaves straw into gold - a woman who favors her personal freedom above all else. Standing between her and freedom are a devilish mother, a greedy king, a hilarious messenger and the impudent Rumpelstiltskin himself.

But, with the help of the audience, she outwits all her antagonists.

Touchstone performs children's theater throughout the Allentown-Bethlehem region during the summer and takes its production on the road in winter. The popular group of players inaugurated Montessori's Kids Arts series in 1988 and has been a highlight of the series each year since.

Montessori, celebrating its 20th anniversary this year, presents the Kids Arts series to its own students and all other children in the community.

Children who are not old enough to enjoy sitting through the performance may play in the school's playroom with parental supervision.

The school is located at the corner of Market and Maple Streets in Kingston. Call the school at 288-3708 for further information.
