

The Back Mountain shows its colors

Mildred Cooney makes photo display to show support for troops

Mildred Cooney of Trucksville, a nurse at the V.A. Hospital in Wilkes-Barre, has used her interest in photography to record displays of support for the troops in the Persian Gulf.

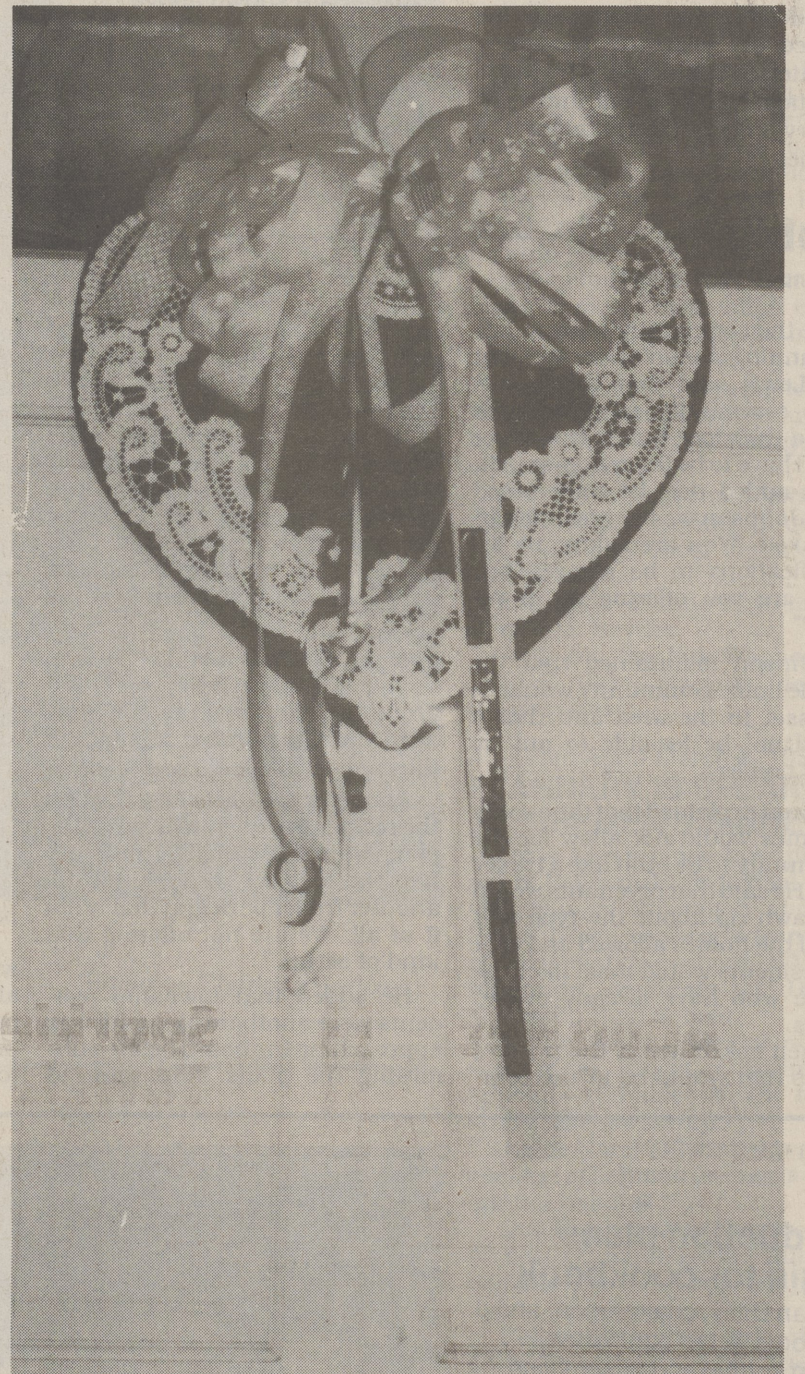

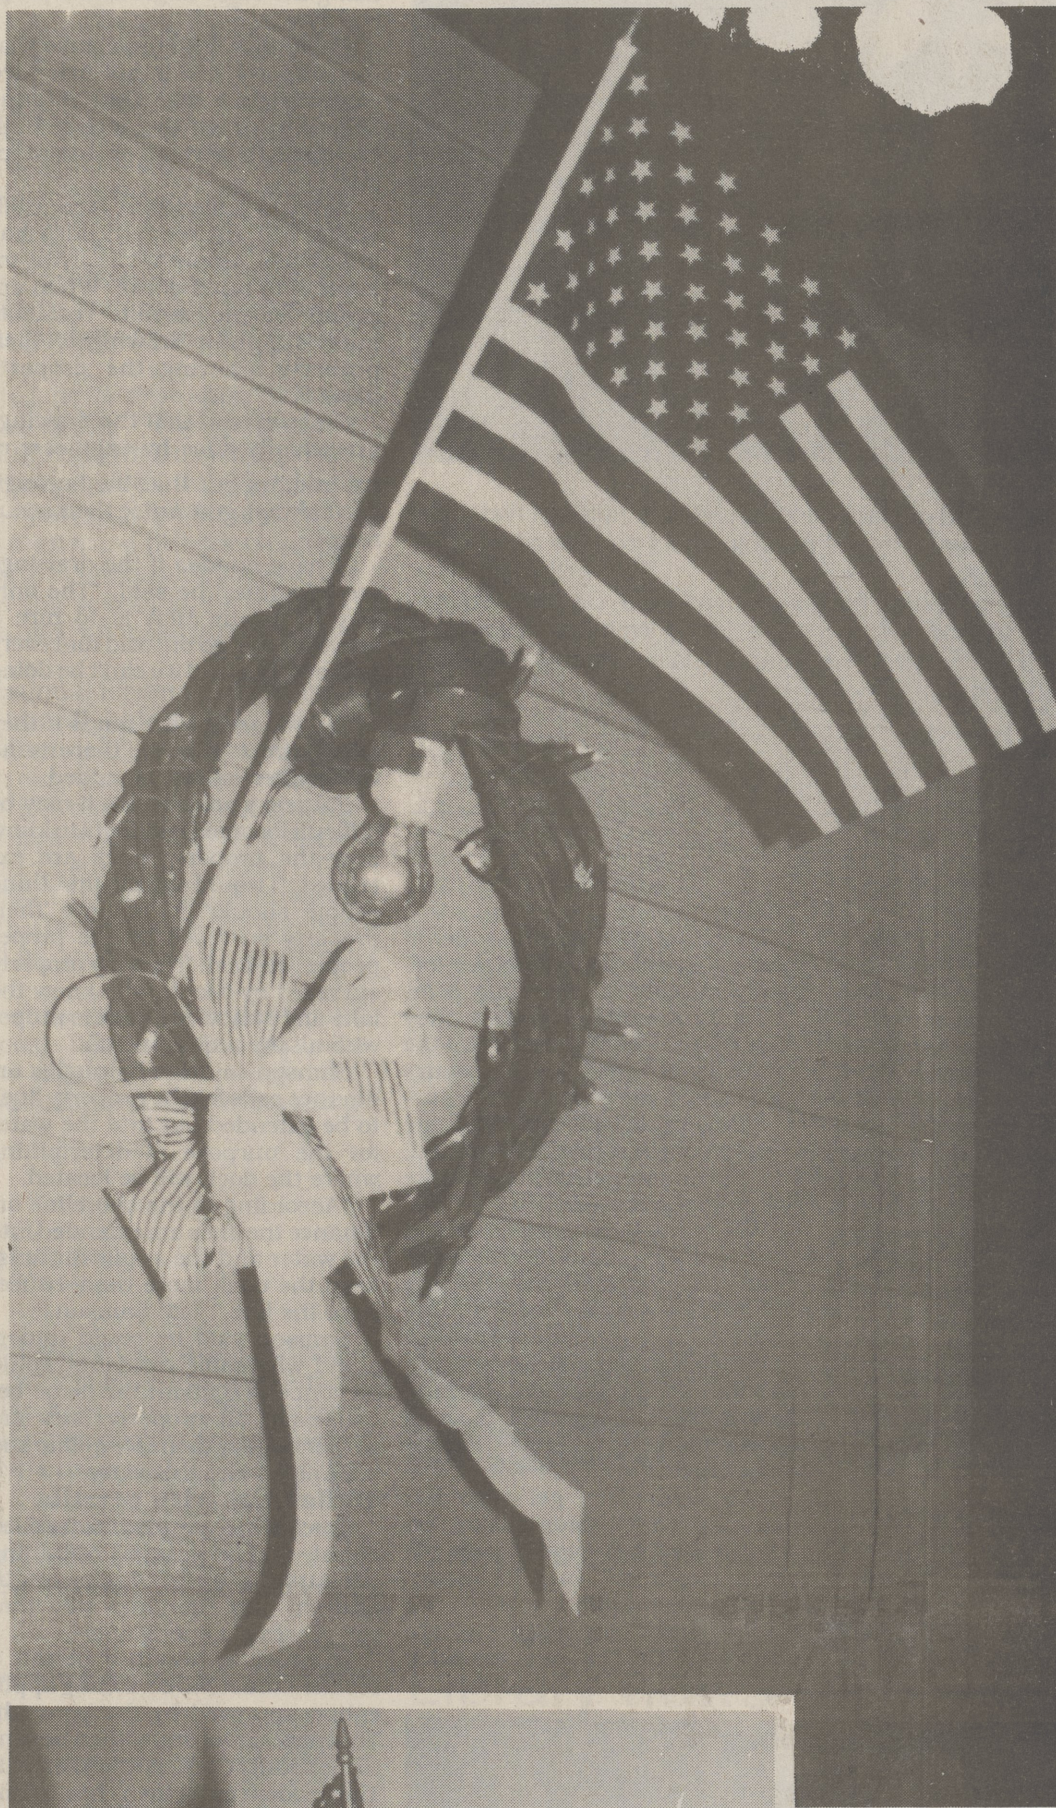

"I have a brother in the service in Saudi Arabia and as a result the various displays in the Back Mountain had a special meaning to me," she said.

"I was so impressed by the different displays on the houses, businesses, signs and poles that I thought I would take photos of them and through the camera lens try to show the emotions of people in the Back Mountain area."

Cooney didn't limit herself to her own neighborhood when she set out to chronicle the displays.

"I took photos in Trucksville, Shavertown, Dallas, Pikes Creek and Harveys Lake, capturing the beauty and the emotion that was possible with my camera without a high-power zoom lens. I took a total of 68 pictures and mounted them on white poster board to display it if possible and to show to my brother when he returns home.

I took one photo of the people from the V.A. Hospital. About 53 of them have gone to Saudi Arabia and we hear from them quite often," Cooney said.
