Business people all around Dallas were surprised but pleased Thursday morning when they came to their work places and found large paper Valentines attached to their doors.

The Valentines bore the inscription, "Thanks for Serving Dallas. You are Loved!"

Uppermost in all business people's minds was the question, "Who placed the Valentines on our doors?"

Some time during the late hours of the night and the wet conditions, someone brought a ray of sunshine to the businesses of the Dallas area.

From Country Traditions near the Hess gas station on both sides of Route 509 as far north as Payne Printery, the store and shop owners were greeted by large white or red Valentines.

About 100 of the welcome hearts adorned doors throughout Dallas and most business people spent the day trying to figure out who carried out such a heartwarming project.

"I don't know who did it but it was certainly a wonderful gesture," said Fran Ochman of Dallas. "It certainly was just the right touch to make you glad you're a part of Dallas. I wish I could thank the person or persons personally."

"We had a red heart enclosed in a plastic bag on our door," said Jan Wertman of J&J Deli. "While some had white ones. I think the hearts out in the open were placed in bags to save them from getting wet. Whoever did it, it was a great idea."

From place to place, persons expressed their surprise but also their appreciation for such a "thoughtful gesture."

Dallas Borough Chief of Police Jack Fowler avoided a direct answer when questioned about who the "culprits" might be, though it seemed logical that he would know. "I'm sworn to secrecy," he said.

By RICH JOHNSON

Explosions from a fire at a trucking business rocked a Lehman Township neighborhood Tuesday afternoon.

The fire was reported at approximately 12:30 p.m. at the Colarusso Excavating and Trucking Company on Jackson Road in the township.

Officials did not know the cause of the blaze but said that gases and chemicals used by the truck-

Neighbors say that as many as seven explosions were heard before fire crews responded to the scene. "I didn't know what to think when I heard the explosions," said Margaret Bakker, who lives in a couple of houses from the barn that housed the trucks. "At first I thought that it may have been bombs going off or someone was blasting around the area."

The blasts were so powerful that windows and some items in neighboring homes shook.
