Dallas Literature Ass'n entertains 1st graders

The American Literature Field Studies Association of the Dallas High School recently presented a program for the first grade students of Mrs. Judy Roeder.

The high school seniors representing the academic association were Rebecca Puz and Angela Orlando; they talked with the first graders about the field trip taken recently to historic sites of New England.

The young students were interested in hearing about the high school students' visit to the Mayflower II, Plymouth Rock, Plimouth Plantation, and the Plymouth National Wax Museum. They asked the seniors about the American Indians, and showed particular interest in Squanto, the American Indian who spoke English.

The first graders are foster parents to a whale named Patches. They adopted this whale, and keep close track of his progress. They were therefore, particularly interested in the description of the Whale Watch which was part of the field trip. Students saw approximately 40 whales during their whale watch on May 8. The American Literature Field Studies students purchased a video tape highlighting the life and activities of Patches. They presented this video tape to the first grade class as part of the program.

The purchase of this video tape, and the presentation of the program to the first grade students is the community service project of the American Literature Field Studies Association. Each year the senior high school association undertakes a service project. In past years, video tapes and books were presented to the school library and flags of America's service organizations were purchased to hang in the school atrium. In 1990, members of the association made a presentation before the Dallas Board of School Directors.

Activities of the association are funded entirely by the students.

During the course of the school year, fund raisers such as the sale of poinsettia plants at Christmas time and the sale of candy at Easter time, help defray the cost of the field trip and service activities.

American Literature Field Studies advisor is Mrs. Eleanor T. Buda. Consultants and chaperones for the field trip are Mrs. Donna Tre-bilcox, Mrs. Rita Bren and Mr. Charles Preece.

Plans are underway for field studies 1992. All senior high school juniors and seniors are welcome to participate in this association and its annual activities. Student coordinator for the 1992 activities is Ryan Blazure, who will be chairing the committee to decide on fund raisers and field studies itinerary.

"For The REST Of Your Life" Joel F. Guerin, President

How can I sleep comfortably when pregnant?

A woman's body goes through some radical changes in shape during the various stages of pregnancy. This can lead not only to lower back pain while awake, but difficulty getting comfortable enough to sleep properly. Good rest is an important part of taking care not only of mom but also the unborn baby. It can also make a substantial difference whether the mother-to-be enjoys her pregnancy well rested, or is tired, irritable, and uncomfortable. A proper support mattress can make all the difference in the world. The mattress should conform to the body as it changes shape, allowing for more deflection as the belly grows larger. This keeps the larger belly from twisting the back into an unnatural alignment which can contribute substantially to sleeping discomfort as well as morning back pain. The Postureguard mattress by Healthflex not only guarantees that it will accommodate the various body changes during pregnancy better than ANY other consumer mattress, it also accommodates you and your husband's normal shapes when you are NOT pregnant, as the most comfortable standard mattress you have EVER slept on. GUARANTEED!
