Jeanna Oh is attending Governor's school

Jeanna Oh, 25 Kingswood Drive, Dallas, is among the 64 academically talented sophomores and juniors attending the second annual Pennsylvania Governor's School for Teaching at Millersville University.

Oh is a student at Wyoming Seminary in Kingston.

The five-week School for Teaching at MU, which runs through August 10, is one of seven "Governor's Schools of Excellence" in Pennsylvania. A full scholarship residential summer enrichment program that brings together students of diverse cultures and backgrounds, the school is the first such program in the nation dedicated to the profession of teaching. This year's participants were selected from a pool of hundreds of applicants who are enrolled in school districts across Pennsylvania.

While at Millersville, the young scholars will study current theories of learning and teaching, actively teach, design a school of the future, and enjoy field trips.

Bartley earns USC degree

Paul E. Bartley III, Orchard Hills Farms of Vernon, was awarded a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

Bartley is a dean's student graduate and is the recipient of Outstanding College Students of America Award.

He is an 1987 honor student graduate of Wyoming Seminary where he received varsity letters in football, wrestling and swim teams, member of "Who's Who in High School Students of America."

Bartley is the son of Nancy Eggleston Bartley, Vernon and Paul Bartley Jr., St. Petersburg Beach, Fla.

Writing students

Third grade students of Mrs. Nulton's class entertained their parents with readings of the writing essays they did during the year Thursday at the Dallas Elementary School. After reading the stories they wrote, each student presented their parents with an anthology. Above, Kim Derhammer reads her essay on whales. (Post Photo/C.M. Denmon)
