the Back Mountain," said Fisher. Prior to completing the map, Fisher had people research public and private documentation, checking and re-checking their information. The final step was actually driving each of the roads designated on the map—most of the roads that exist in the Back Mountain. Fisher says 5,000 maps have been printed, 200 of them flat and suitable for framing or lamination. The maps sell for $3.50 each and the laminated version for $10.00. Although he is pleased with the 1991 map, Fisher found a number of changes he will make the next time around when he plans to update the map in four years. Fisher financed the maps through the advertisements of local businesses that appear on the pictorial side of the map. Designing the map was an aspect Fisher and his colleagues were experts in but its circulation has been a real learning experience for him. "I had to learn about marketing because I wanted to do bulk sales," Fisher said. The maps will be available at Penn General, Rte. 415 and 118; Dallas Borough Building, Main Street, Dallas; N-Mart/Newell Fuel, 108 Memorial Highway, Trucksville; Ken Cook's Store, Lehigh Center, Lehigh; Gas Stop 24, Memorial Hwy., Dallas; Valley Auto Club "AAA", Route 309-415 Plaza, Dallas, and 100 Hazle Ave., Wilkes-Barre, with a special price for members; and the Luzerne County Fair by the Harveys Lake Fire Company. Other groups interested in distributing the maps may contact Fisher at his office. The project has been so well received that Fisher is pleased to report that he and his staff will be mapping several other communities including the the Poconos, Marshall's Creek, Lake Wallenpaupack, Clarks Summit, Dalton, Nicholson and Conyngham. He has also had requests from the Berwick and Bloomsburg area. "People are actually contacting us," Fisher said. "I knew we had a useful product but the response has been unbelievable." In the Back Mountain the maps are not only useful for area residents but a necessity for police and emergency services that have a problem keeping up with the continued growth of the area. They are also useful for realtors, developers and contractors and for newcomers into the community.
