Famous fly fisherman will sign his book Sept. 26

Charlie Meck will be on hand to sign and discuss his new book, Fishing Small Streams with a Fly Rod, at the Irem Temple Country Club, Clown Alley from 5:30 to 8 p.m. on September 26.

Hooked on fly fishing for most of his life, Charlie has fished countless streams, large and small, throughout the United States, Canada and overseas. His previous books, Pennsylvania Trout Streams and their Hatches and Meeting and Fishing the Hatches, have been widely acclaimed, and he has contributed many articles to such journals as "Fly Fisherman" and "American Angler". A specialist in aquatic entomology, Charlie has taught biology and is a lifelong resident of Pennsylvania and a one time Dallas resident. He served for 25 years as Regional Director for Continuing Education at the Pennsylvania State University. He retired in 1986 to travel, fish, hunt, write about the outdoors and to guide fly fishermen.
