Penn State presents hot latin jazz October 3

Salsamba, a latin jazz quintet that blends the traditions of American jazz with spicy rhythms of Puerto Rico, Africa, and Brazil, will perform at Penn State Wilkes-Barre on October 3, at 7:30, in the Hayfield House Community Room.

Founded in 1984, the group has opened for Latin jazz king Tito Puente, guitarists John Scofield and Stanley Jordan, and flutist Dave Valentin while performing at colleges, festivals, and clubs throughout the eastern United States.

Salsamba released their debut album in 1988 on Clave Records entitled Mambo in Blue. The recording has garnered the praise of jazz critics and reviewers alike. Writing in the Pittsburgh Press,

Blue "red-hot latin jazz... an album with no surprises: Salsamba sounds just as good on tape as it does in person."

In 1989, the group was featured in a broadcast of National Public Radio's American Jazz Radio Festival program, which was aired nationwide to over 125 member stations.

Instruments played by Salsamba include guitar, sax/flute, bass, conga, drums, and timbales. The music is accessible, exhilarating and danceable.

The performance is part of Penn State Wilkes-Barre's Cultural and Performing Arts Series. The community is invited free of charge. For more information, contact the campus at 675-2171.
