A hug from Dad helps student make it through

BY JENNIFER JUDGE
 Student Correspondent

On any given day, I attend high school, take a college course, and go to work. Somewhere in between, I try to balance my waning social life and find time to spend with my family. Not that I don't enjoy all these activities, but by Saturday, I am left exhausted. As a young adult, I am often times asked to bear the burden of many projects at once. I spend my days developing my mind—writing papers, taking notes, and trying to perform well. I rush off to my part-time job after school. I attempt to maintain valuable friendships and experience meaningful relationships. I am faced with an overloaded schedule, and I must learn to balance everything. Suddenly family fades into the background. As a senior in high school I find it's time to make decisions that will affect my entire life. Will I go to college? Where? How will I possibly pay for it? Where will I find a job?

I rush around looking for these answers. I fill out college applications, job applications, applications for financial aid, and scholarship applications. I face rejection and celebrate my accomplishments. Merely a teenager inside, I have been ushered into an adult world. I'm not sure I'm completely ready for it.

This evening I had a realization. After the routine lecture to remember to shut off the lights, my father stopped me to give me a hug. For the first time in a long time, he said "I love you." Life can be stressful for factory workers, office workers, housewives, and students alike. And sometimes there is nothing as gratifying as a hug from Dad.

Lehman seniors will battle faculty in donkey basketball

America's craziest and most unpredictable sport "Donkey Basketball" will be played at Lake-Lehman Senior High School gym on Friday, Feb. 7, 7:30 p.m. It will feature seniors against faculty.

The fun begins at 6:30 p.m.

when the senior boys (wearing boxing gloves) play against the senior girls. This event is sponsored by the senior class. Tickets are $3 and are available from seniors and at the door. Bring the entire family to this fun-filled evening.

LCCC sponsors essay contest for Black History Month

In recognition of Black History Month, the Culturally Organized Rainbow Exchange (CORE) Club of Luzerne County Community College will conduct an essay competition. The winner of the competition will be awarded a scholarship to be used toward tuition or books at LCCC during the 1992-93 school year.

The competition is open to all area high school seniors and will give them an opportunity to study and evaluate the contributions made by people of African descent. Papers must be at least three to six pages long with a clear thesis statement telling how a present or historical Black American known internationally or locally has made a difference in our society. The papers will be judged on content, originality and writing style, as well as grammar and punctuation. All entries must be submitted no later than Monday, Feb. 17. The essays will be evaluated by a committee and the winner will be announced on Friday, Feb. 28.

Entries should be mailed to Deborah Whitaker, Essay Competition, Building #5, Box 20, Luzerne County Community College, 1333 South Prospect Street, Nanticoke, PA 18634.

For more information on the CORE essay contest, contact LCCC at 829-7399.
