Dallas scholars to visit Nantucket

The American Literature Field Studies Association of Dallas High School will conclude its academic year of studies with a field trip to historic sites of New England, including historic sites of the island of Nantucket, Mass. Included in the itinerary in Massachusetts will be a whale watch excursion off of Provincetown, oceanographic research at Wood's Hole, tour of Plimouth Plantation and historic sites of the Plymouth area, and Battleship Cove in Fall River; in Connecticut, the USS Nautilus and Mystic Aquarium. Field studies in New England were instituted in 1986 by Eleanor Buda, American Literature teacher. Accompanying the students on the four-day trip, in addition to Mrs. Buda, will be school nurse Rita Bren and teachers Charles M. Preece and Carrie M. Walters. Shown from left, are members of the Nantucket Committee: John Morris, Leah Lynch and seated Kristine Marsola.
