

Trucksville student delivers commencement address

When Carlo Santarelli, III began to prepare his speech required for graduation from Wyoming Seminary Lower School, he didn't know it would grow into the school's commencement address.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Santarelli, Jr., of Sunrise Estates, Carverton, Carlo graduated from the lower school with high honors. A member of the student government, he also played forward on the basketball team and goalie on the soccer team.

The required eighth grade speech is delivered to grades five through eight. An additional speech competition determines who will speak at graduation.

Of 40 eighth-graders, only eight students competed, each presenting to the faculty the speech which they hoped to deliver at the Lower School's graduation. Carlo's unique blend of humorous recollections won.

"Our maturity has taken us from throwing tantrums on a daily basis to just having one slip out on a very rare occasion. We've grown to accept differences, various points of view and even personal criticism on a very good day," Carlo said.

His reminiscences covered kindergarten's Maypole Dance, practing "a million hours" learning to write cursive, the fourth grade's infamous class newspaper and finally reaching the epitome of "cool," eighth grade.

After thanking teachers and family for their support, he bid farewell to his class's special status as the big kids whom the rest of the school looks up to. "It's sure going to be a real pain to be right smack at the bottom again as we begin yet another climb through senior high school."

Carlo is looking forward to trying out for baseball, basketball and soccer this fall at Wyoming Seminary Upper School.
