Chuck Finn was Lehman class president

By GRACE R. DOVE

Although Class of '92 president Charles "Chuck" Finn has been best known for his sports prowess, he has also been involved in many other school activities at Lake-Lehman.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. James Finn of Dallas, the tall, muscular athlete played the supporting role of "Little John," one of the merry men in the school's 1992 production of Robin Hood.

Finn was a Peer Helper and also served on the student advisory board, a group which meets regularly with principal John Oliver to review and suggest changes to school policies.

Finn's first loves, football and baseball, and the position of sports editor of the school newspaper "Knight Life" rounded out his career at Lake-Lehman.

His favorite memories of Lake-Lehman include the Senior Prom and the Black Knights' 7-0 victory over Dallas in football this past season.

While attending Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N.J., Chuck plans to play baseball and major in communications in preparation for a career as a producer.

Speakers close out Dallas High years

By ERIC FOSTER

On June 11, the graduating class of Dallas High School stood at the crossroads, reflecting on where they had been, and looking ahead to where they were going.

"I don't think one of us here can honestly say we didn't want to get out of high school," said senior class president Nicole Argentiati at the class's commencement. "But if you look back, I'm sure we could all find one memory that would bring a smile to our faces."

"This isn't it, this isn't even close. The best part is yet to come," said class Salutatorian Keith McDonald. "Some of us feel that we are being torn away from everything that we know and love while others are itching to get out of here."

"We can now go to the bathroom without a note from every teacher in the building," he said. "We have grown up without knowing it."

"Life is out there my friends. We've seen it a little from our sheltered environment at Dallas High School," said McDonald. "Now we are graduating, now we can do anything we want. It's our choice. Read the writing on the wall of life. If you don't like it, knock it down and change it. The world is our oyster."

The graduates new-found freedom also comes with responsibilities McDonald added. "When we walk across the stage we are becoming adults who are responsible for our own feelings, thoughts and actions. The world is not always a kind place. It quickly separates the strong from the weak-hearted. There are leaders and there are followers and I know all of you are strong-hearted leaders.

"Teachers we're finally getting out of your hair," said McDonald. "No more squabbling over true and false tests. Your caring and thoughtfulness surpassed any of the specific knowledge you've passed on to us."

"I'd like to thank all the teachers I've had the opportunity to sit through class with," said class Valedictorian Eric Lehman. "I'd also like to thank all of my friends."

Before looking ahead to the future, Lehman took a moment to reminisce about childhood.

"I also remember when I used to be a frog," said Lehman, bringing a laugh to the audience.

"Definitely, the most influential people in my life have been the members of my family," said Lehman. "I know there are probably many times in your life when your parents frustrated you. But in most cases, they are only trying to help."

The ceremony ended with senior members of the chorus, Bill Sarley, Heather Hodne, Monica and Monique Matthews, singing "It's so Hard to say Goodbye."
