The camp is for students in grades six through 12, and will be held from 9 a.m. to 11:50 a.m. on the campus in Lehman. There are still openings in the camp, and registration information is available from Melissa Noderer at 675-9114.

KMS races for Boys Town

Other Flanagan's Boys Town National Hotline (1-800-448-3000), a toll-free resource line for troubled boys, girls and families will team up with KMS/Valley Chevrolet/Quaker State's two Corvettes at the IMSA Bridgestone "Supercar" and SCCA "World Challenge Series" races this year.

Ken Wallace, KMS Motorsports Team owner said, "Our team will provide race fans with information about this important community service. Helping children and families will help their future and ours."

Boys Town Executive Director Father Val J. Peter said, "We are very happy the KMS Motorsports team is joining our team in the race to help more and more children and families in crisis."

Last year, more than 420,000 boys, girls and parents from across the country called the Boys Town Hotline and talked with highly trained counselors, who helped them work out their problems or put them in touch with a helping hand right in their own community.

KMS Team drivers Kenny Wallace (#3 Corvette) and Shawn Hendricks (#34 Corvette) will be available at the races to talk about the hotline and provide handouts regarding its services.
