Hunter education camps for youth August 15-22

The Pennsylvania Game Commission (PGC), Northeast Region, will offer two Hunter Education Camps this summer.

Hunter Education Camps for youngsters age 12 through 15 will be held at Camp Maple Lake, Forksville, Pa., August 15-22. Camp One begins Saturday, August 15 and concludes on Tuesday, August 18. Camp Two begins Wednesday, August 19 and concludes on Saturday, August 22.

Camp Maple Lake is located in Sullivan County, the beautiful Endless Mountains, on a 17 acre lake. The camp is 40 miles north-east of Williamsport, 45 miles north of Bloomsburg and 50 miles west of Wilkes-Barre. A short distance away is popular Worlds End State Park.

The camp will host a maximum of 100 students at each session. Students will be accepted on a first come, first serve basis. The cost is $85.00, which will guarantee each participant meals, lodging, camp facilities, a counselor in each cabin, full-time nurse, ammunition for rifles and shotgun instruction and all necessary educational material.

The program will follow closely the basic Hunter/Trapper Education program now conducted by the PGC, with additional emphasis placed on rifle/shotgun shooting, archery, outdoor safety, compass and map reading and survival.

All students will be required to handle and shoot a rifle, shotgun and bow. A practical field course will be provided so each student can be tested on performance and knowledge gained in the classroom.

The Hunter Education Camp is open to all, regardless of sex, race, color or religion. Students will not be denied the course because of physical handicap, if the student is legally eligible to hunt.

Upon completion of the camp each student will receive a certificate of training as required by law for first time hunters. Students who have taken the basic 10-hour Hunter Education Course previously, are welcome to attend.

For information and applications for the Hunter Education Camps, contact Edward Shearlin, I. & E. Supervisor, PGC Northeast Office, P.O. Box 220 Dallas, Pa. 18612-0220, (717-678-1143).
