Dallas Middle School holds baking contest

The Foreign Language Department of the Dallas Middle School recently held the 1992 Foreign Desserts Bake-Off. The bake-off was open to all eighth-grade foreign language students. Each contestant prepared a dessert from a country where his language is spoken. First place winners were Phil Gager and Fred Maier, who prepared a German Black Forest Cherry Cake; Heather Gryzic and Nicole Hayden, who prepared French cream puffs; and Don Holdredge and Bobby Lorah, who prepared a Spanish caramel flan. Second place winners were Nathan Shedlock, who prepared a German chocolate torte; Wendi Hunter, who prepared a French cake with layered crepes; and Quinn Kavanagh and Lynn Kilduff, who prepared a fruited Spanish flan.

Teach children to walk safely to school

Parents should not only show children the way to school, they should also teach them to get there safely, advises the Valley Automobile Club.

It's important for parents to walk first-time and very young students to school or to the bus stop several times, even if they insist that they know the way," said Patrick J. Higgins, Safety Director. "Decide on the safest route to school, point out possible traffic hazards and establish safe walking habits."

Higgins reminds all motorists to be especially alert in the vicinity of school crossings because youngsters can be unpredictable. Inquisitive, impulsive and fast, they may dart out between parked cars, from behind shrubbery or other obstruction.

"Children have a relatively short attention span, especially in the early grades. Even if they know all the safety rules, they are likely to forget them when pursuing a wind-tossed school paper or favorite toy," said Higgins.

First-time students are particularly vulnerable since they lack experience in traffic and have not yet fully developed the ability to judge vehicle stopping distances accurately.

Collisions are the leading cause of death for youngsters 15 and younger, claiming nearly 44,000 lives in the last decade. Approximately 70 percent of these traffic incidents occur on the way to school and in the afternoon between 3-6 p.m.

Nearly half the deaths and injuries of pedestrians between the ages 5-14 occurred between intersections in 1990 (the latest year for which statistics are available), noted Higgins. Incidents like these occur, in part, because students get careless or act impulsively.

The Valley Automobile Club offers these additional tips to remind motorists to drive cautiously when school is open:

- Watch for school zones that limit driving speed and turns during specific hours.
- Pay attention to adult school crossing guards and AAA School Safety Patrol members stationed at key intersections. Patrol members can be identified by their bright orange belts.
- Obey local traffic laws concerning school buses.

Wyoming Seminary will host Cornell speaker Sept. 21

As part of its service to college-bound students and their families, Wyoming Seminary College Preparatory School, Kingston, will host Ms. Gretchen Alsdorf, associate director of admissions at Cornell University, on Monday, September 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the Buckingham Performing Arts Center, Sprague Avenue.

According to Bryan Rutledge, director of college guidance, Ms. Alsdorf will address the popularity of "Ivy League" schools, what qualifications they look for in an applicant, and how selective and competitive they are with regard to admissions.

A question and answer period will follow.

All Upper School students and their families are invited to attend this informational session. For further details, contact Bryan Rutledge, director of college guidance at 283-6000.
