Football Mania winners announced

By NANCY KOZEMCHAK

The Back Mountain Memorial Library has officially ended its "Football Mania Contest". The contest was held for children from 8 through 12 years old to guess the number of balls hanging in the office area in a mesh bag. The correct number was 16. There were three children who guessed the correct number; Susan Smith, Dave Hoover and Jamie Hoover. They will receive one of the footballs from the bag and a National Football League figurine. The closest to the correct answer will receive the same prize. We will give the choice of the ball to the first winners as they come in.

Kenny Weidner and Thomas Dougal. All the other children who entered the contest will receive a football figure. These may be picked up at the library anytime the library is open.

We have a very unique wreath hanging outside the entrance to the library. One of our faithful patrons had a holly wreath hanging on her front door last Christmas and left it there until the spring. When she checked it over in the spring, she was surprised to find a bird's nest right into the wreath. Unfortunately, the bird decided the nest was in a rather unsafe area for hatching babies, so there were no eggs laid in the nest. The children's story hours were very excited to hear the story and to see the special nest.

omy of a murder, a marriage, and a man who lived a triple life. Glen Wolsieffer artfully juggled his roles as a respected dentist, husband, father; as the manipulative lover of his adoring office assistant; and as the clandestine paramour of a beautiful, adulterous woman-until his tawdry secret existence was revealed through murder. A sensational murder case.

"Highly Confident" by Jesse Kornbluth is the story of the crime and punishment of Michael Milken. The biggest manhunt in Wall Street history begins with this electrifying phone call, recorded by federal investigators and reproduced here for the first time. From that moment, we see far beyond the Michael Milken cliché: junk bond king, Ivan Boesky's co-conspirator, notorious for his 12-hour work days and $550 million salary. What emerges is a reality that will stun all who have read the articles and books this epic has spawned.

SIERRA CLUB ENDORSES PHYLLIS MUNDY

Clean air. Clean water.
A safe environment for your family and all the other living things on the planet.

Protecting these things requires that we win a constant stream of large and small battles - many of them fought in the Pennsylvania General Assembly where the laws that prevent - or permit - environmental degradation are made.

In 1990 the Sierra Club endorsed Phyllis Mundy because we believed that she would support a clean environment for the citizens of Pennsylvania and the 120th District. She has done exactly that. That's why the Sierra Club supports Rep. Phyllis Mundy's 1992 reelection effort and hopes that you'll return this pro-environment legislator to office.

Clean air. Clean water. Keep Phyllis Mundy as your representative in Harrisburg.

Remember: To keep Rep. Mundy in office, you have to vote for her on Election Day, November 3, 1992.
