50 Years Ago - Oct. 30, 1942 SURPRISE BLACKOUT CAUSES HEADACHES

Monday night's surprise blackout caught much of the Back Mountain flat-footed and proved again the inadequacy of the present fire siren warning system and the inefficiency of the secondary air warden set up. From all sections of the area came complaints of confusion to distinguish between fire alarms and air raid warnings. Dr. Henry M. Laing Fire Co. at a gely attended meeting purchased two Indian pumps to be used in fighting grass fires, incendiary bombs, and small confined fires. Pumps cost $18.50 each and are made so that they can be carried on the backs of individual firemen. Nozzles, are arranged so that they can produce a steady stream of water or a spray. Halloween vandals, boys of high school age from the Dallas Heights area kept the police and property owners on the hop Wednesday and Thursday nights. Without regard for safety of motorists they dragged stumps and rocks onto the highway at the intersection of Pinecrest and Huntsville roads. Then they rolled a concrete pipe, three feet in diameter down Hutnsville Road where it struck a telephone pole below Norton Avenue, which prevented it from rolling down to Main Street where it might have struck a pedestrian, or crashed into Flannigan Furniture Store

The bill will provide busing for kindergarten and elementary students living one and a half miles from the school, where road and traffic conditions are such to cause hazards to the children and for secondary stuidents living within two miles of the school, where the same hazardous conditions exist.

Identify the people in the photo

This week's old photo dates back to 1929. We have no identity but we think from the photo that it's the old Dallas Borough School on Huntsville Road. The building today houses the Back Mountain Memorial Library and Little People Day Care Center. We do know the photo finisher was Raymond A. King of Dallas. The rest is up to you. Call us and identify the people if you can.

Book Club begins special stitchery project

By NANCY KOZEMCHAK

The Book Club of the Back Mountain Memorial Library met in the reference room on October 19 and the members began work on the counted cross stitch project with instructor Mary Lou Swingle. The subjects chosen to work on included Christmas, birthday month flowers and other subjects. The members will work on these at home and continue again at the November meeting of the Book Club on November 16. The total book club membership for 1992 has reached 227 with $2,070 collected in membership dues to purchase books for the special shelf in the

The Sierra Club is a nationwide organization of 650,000 members dedicated to protecting and enjoying the waters, forests, wildlife, and wilderness of America. We work to change the many laws and regulations that permit and sometimes encourage pollution. That means writing letters, making phone calls, informing and alerting the public, and sometimes helping to elect pro-environment candidates. We are democracy in action for a clean, safe environment.

Elect Your State Representative

Coslett

"I will make these promises to voters in the 120th district

- To put taxpayers first
- ·To control taxes and spending
- ·To work to attract high-quality jobs to our area
- •To protect the rights and security of our senior citizens"

Good government begins at home and that's why the election for State Representative is so important. The job of State Representative is to represent the interests of the citizens of the 120th District - in Harrisburg.

Keith Coslett makes that promise number one! Keith Coslett will work hard for the people who elect him. Keith Coslett is a Kingston native. He knows what's important to you. "I grew up here, my business is here, my family is here. I have a commitment to making our area a better place for all of us," says Keith Coslett, "and that's why I want to be your State Representative."
